NEW SCANDAL STIRS WASHINGTON OTHER EVIDENCE OF WRONG DOING IN U. S. CAPITOL

WARREN OPPOSES LOCAL BILL HOUSE MEMBERS FROM DISTRICT OPPOSED TO IT

New Charges to be Placed Before Grand Jury, Which Will Investigate Graft Accusations Against Two Congressmen—High Officials are Said to Be Involved—Liquor Permits Were Wrongly Procured Through Money and Official Information Was Used For Speculation Purposes—Administration Officials in Air.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 5.—Not only the charges against two members of Congress, but evidence relating to other suggestions of wrong doing by officials in Washington as well will be laid before a federal grand jury here immediately.

The subjects expected to come under inquiry involve charges that one or more high officials used official information for purposes of speculation; that liquor permits were wrongly procured through use of money; and that official government files were turned over to persons not entitled to them.

White House officials said today that all phases of evidence adduced recently by the Chicago jury and not passed on there because of lack of jurisdiction, would be gone into by a grand jury here.

For the present no official will disclose details of these charges nor discuss the details of the inquiry may lead. The development has attracted a stir in official circles, however, second only to that which followed the oil disclosures.

President Coolidge announced last night that the charges against the two members of the House, involving acceptance of money, had been referred to a grand jury. Prior to that, the Senate Veterans Committee and held two sessions to consider the charges and a resolution for an investigation had been introduced in the House.

John W. H. Crim, who was in charge of the Chicago investigation, has conferred with members of both Senate and House, but he has declined to furnish the details of those involved or admit the names of those involved or admit the details, taking the position that the evidence requires further development before any of it can be divulged. It was developed incidentally at Chicago, in an inquiry with the veterans bureau inquiry that resulted in the indictment of Charles R. Forster.

Mr. Crim also has reported the facts to the White House, leaving to President Coolidge the decision as to what action should be taken. Today's announcement was interpreted as an indication that the executive was prepared to demand a complete sifting of the evidence, regardless of who might be involved.

The investigation resolution introduced yesterday in the House by Democratic leader Garrett, who referred to the Rules Committee, but Chairman Snell said today that no action would be taken on it for several days. He reached this decision after a conference with Mr. Crim, who told him that information could be furnished to a congressional committee without embarrassing the justice department in its presentation of the case to a grand jury.

TO ACT AT ONCE
(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—The charges that two members of Congress have accepted money improperly will be submitted without delay to a grand jury here for investigation.

President Coolidge has instructed Acting Attorney General Seymour to "proceed with every diligence in the prosecution of the cases" and the House Rules Committee, awaiting developments.

Both action on several days on the resolution for an investigation introduced yesterday by Representative Garrett, the Democratic leader.

The allegations are an outgrowth of the continued illness of William Schley Howard, of defense counsel. It was agreed to begin hearing of the suit tomorrow regardless of whether Mr. Howard is present.

Both principals were in court as were many spectators. Mrs. Byfield was accompanied by her husband, Clyde K. Byfield, automobile dealer of Atlanta, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Gillespie, of Atlanta. Mr. Candler, who is a millionaire sportsman and clubman of Atlanta, was accompanied by his father, Asa G. Candler, Sr., the millionaire soft drink manufacturer.

Mrs. Byfield, in her suit, alleges that Mr. Candler attacked her while she and her husband, Mr. Candler, and his two little girls, were en route to Europe in the summer of 1922. Mr. Candler denied any improper conduct.

Mrs. Nelson Blumer Guest, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Smith were hosts last night at dinner given at the Country Club in honor of Mrs. Frank Nelson, of Birmingham, guest of Col. and Mrs. Iver W. Dudley and who, since her visit, has been charmingly entertained several times.

WEDDING LICENSE ISSUED.
A marriage license has been issued by the clerk of the corporation court to James C. Gardner, of Roanokeville, and Victoria Gibbons, of Danville.

EXPECT ACTION THIS WEEK ON OFFER OF FORD

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—The McKenzie bill providing for acceptance of the offer of Henry Ford for the government's wartime project at Muscle Shoals ran into a parliamentary situation in the House today, which threatened a slight delay, but action before the end of the week was regarded as certain.

The measure was taken up yesterday under an agreement limiting general debate to ten hours with restricted discussion of amendments to follow. About three hours had been consumed when the House met today under a rule setting aside Wednesday's for consideration of miscellaneous bills.

An attempt by Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, to get unanimous consent to give the McKenzie bill right of way today was blocked yesterday by Representative Graham, Republican, Pennsylvania. Mr. Longworth announced, however, that he would renew his request today in the hope of expediting disposal of the Ford offer, which has been pending in committees more than two years.

TOWN TOPICS

The meeting of the public welfare committee of the council which was to have been held this morning was postponed until this afternoon. At this meeting it is expected that an appointment will be made to the city home commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Margaret Maxon.

Mrs. Byfield's
Suit Is Again
Put Off Today

(By The Associated Press.)

DECATUR, Ga., Mar. 5.—Trial of Mrs. Sarah G. Byfield's suit for $100,000 against Walter T. Candler was again postponed when called in connection with the illness of William Schley Howard, of defense counsel.

It was agreed to begin hearing of the suit tomorrow regardless of whether Mr. Howard is present.

Both principals were in court as were many spectators. Mrs. Byfield was accompanied by her husband, Clyde K. Byfield, automobile dealer of Atlanta, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. ## City Courthouse to Be Made Safe By Budget Provision

The city council in its budget has made a provision for $2,000 to be spent on improving the city courthouse, although it is understood that some members are opposed to spending any further money on the seat of city government. The expenditure during the current fiscal year has been agreed upon, however, largely because of the expressed belief of the city engineer that the tower of the building is unsafe at the present time and should be attended to without any loss of time, no matter what future plans for a new courthouse may be under consideration. The engineer and a contractor recently made an inspection of the tower and found that leakage had resulted in the rotting of stout timbers and the deterioration of other material used in its construction. Recognition was also given the fact that the tower is not simply an ornament but it carries a considerable weight, including the bronze bell, the heavy weights which give impulse to the fire alarm hammer and the clock mechanism, together with the heavy weights which operate it.

The immediate needs of the courthouse have been recognized for some time by the council which has not been in a financial position to authorize them. The quarters of the clerk of the court have been completely outgrown and many of the records have no place for permanent filing. Plans drawn up some years ago provided for the building of a wing on the rear of the courthouse lot which would stand vacant. This would give the clerk of the court sufficient working space but would cost $13,000. There is little chance now of this project being carried out as there is a disposition to withdraw further expenditures on the courthouse other than those deemed imperative until the proposed new combined courthouse, city hall and fire station can be built.

The plan advocated by Councilman W. R. Harrison and which reached the stage of calling for the drawing of plans for a new structure, is that a comprehensive bond issue should be undertaken of about three quarters of a million dollars which would not only provide a building such as that mentioned for about $300,000 but would also include a like amount for the improvement of schools $100,000, for the sewer system, the improvement of which is not underestimated. Mr. Harrison's idea is that the lump sum asked for should not be the separate items but that the separate items have place in the ballot, affording the voters a chance to vote for the different items as they see fit. This plan, he believes, would bring out a big vote and would more nearly result in a fair appraisal of public opinion on the matters than would a vote for or against the whole amount of the bond issue. The school bond advocates are already said to have expressed the feeling that a vote on the whole amount of the bond issue might make it difficult for the school bonds which separated from the other items they believe, would win the sweeping approval of the public which has had the school situation driven home to them repeatedly of recent months.

Mr. Harrison sees no reason why the present council should hesitate about laying the ground work of such an undertaking simply because its term of office is expiring today. He states the same as that which will face a new council should one be elected, and he is in favor of steps being taken without further delay in meeting what he believes is a public need.

And further adjustments of the city's budget are likely to come up for discussion with the school bond issue on Friday night when members of the council and its executive officers as well as the city attorney attend a "Dutch Treat" at the Country Club.

TO FIRST PROBE WHY DAUGHERTY DIDN'T PRESS ANTI-TRUST CASES

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—Plans for the investigation of Attorney General Daugherty have advanced sufficiently to indicate that the special committee elected for the purpose by the Senate will take up first the charge of failure to press anti-trust law cases transmitted to the department of justice by the federal trade commission.

The anti-trust law cases, which number about 50 were emphasized in the impeachment proceedings against Mr. Daugherty about a year ago and Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, prime mover in the inquiry, is assembling papers and complaints dealing with them preparatory to the expected opening of the inquiry next week. Mr. Wheeler, who has been assigned the task of determining procedure, also has decided in his unofficial role of "prosecutor" to employ an attorney to assist him as law clerk.

ACTRESS SHOT WHILE IN ROOM WITH POLICEMAN

Bessie Sorrell, in Grave Condition From Wound Received in Richmond Hotel During Early Morning Hours—Both Claim It Was Accident—Officer Suspend.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

RICHMOND, Va., Mar. 5.—Miss Bessie Sorrell, twenty-two years old actress, known on the stage as Bessie Carroll, was gravely wounded here early today with a revolver belonging to policeman Harry Taylor. Taylor has been suspended from the police force pending a complete investigation. He was charged with declaring the shot was fired accidentally while she was examining the policeman's pistol in her room at a local hotel at 3:30 o'clock this morning. Miss Sorrell's home is at Roncoveveto, W. Va.

According to the story told by Miss Sorrell at the hospital, where she was rushed immediately after the shooting, she and Taylor had been going together for several years. She said she stopped off in Richmond while en route to fill a stage engagement and that Taylor went to her room when he got off duty at midnight. She was examining the revolver, the actress declared, when it was shot through the abdomen and her condition was so serious that an immediate operation was deemed necessary. Hospital physicians today held out little hope for her recovery.

Policeman Taylor told Chief C. A. Sherry today that he and Miss Sorrell were engaged to be married. He said he had shown her the revolver, which had been issued to him recently, and when she took it in her hands, he cautioned her about handling it. The girl continued to play with the weapon, the policeman added, and it went off. Taylor said he telephoned for the ambulance and had Miss Sorrell rushed to the hospital. The policeman declared Miss Sorrell had been here for several weeks convalescing from a recent illness.

Miss Edith Sorrell, who makes her home at Newburn, N. C., arrived here last night to visit her sister.

OIL COMMITTEE EXAMINES MORE W. U. TELGRAMS

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The Senate Oil committee again suspended its public hearings today to examine a new batch of telegrams bearing on the subjects it has under investigation. After a two-hour executive session, the committee resumed its work today. Additional employees of E. B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, who had been summoned to testify, were notified they probably would be heard tomorrow. Today the committee examined today included messages found in the records of the telegraph companies at Palm Beach relating to the affairs of McLean and of Albert E. Fall who spent a part of January in Florida. Details will be held in an executive session until the committee places in the public record those of the messages it decides are pertinent to the oil inquiry.

A delay in preparation of the necessary papers prevented the initiation of the special government counsel designated to bring proceedings in the Sinclair-Doheny annulment cases. Civil action probably will be started tomorrow or Friday.

Without hearing any witnesses, the Senate oil committee adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Before calling any witnesses today the oil committee held an executive session to examine additional telegrams supplied by the Western Union at its Washington office.

All of the messages from the Palm Beach offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies called for under the "dragging" subpoena issued last week have been delivered to the committee. It was stated today by officials of the telegraph companies. These messages include those exchanged between McLean and Fall as well as those received or sent by Albert E. Fall between December 1, 1922, and last February 28. The committee began its examination of these telegrams today.

Opposition to Knight Develops

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—While the oil committee was obtaining more important information in a private examination of telegrams today, opposition developed to the confirmation of Samuel Knight.

The special government counsel in the litigation for the recovery of California oil lands from the Standard Oil Company, of California.

World War Figure to Address Legion On Friday Night

Major Harry Webb Farrington.

Announcement was made today of the appearance here before the Danville Post American Legion on Friday night of Harry Webb Farrington, adjutant of the 7th and 10th Cuirassiers. He is to make an address and is being brought here under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, being recommended by Edwin ettie, former Y secretary here, now of Washington. Mr. Farrington served with the French throughout the war period. Mrs. A. T. Gunn is arranging a short musical programme to be rendered after the usual business session of the Danville Post.

Major Farrington achieved fame some years ago on the football team of Syracuse University. The service he rendered the French government during the world war resulted in his being appointed as a commissioned officer of the crack French regiment, the "Cuirassiers."

He will spend the week-end in this city and in addition to his appearance before the American Legion will appear in some of the churches on Sunday.

HOUSE OPPOSES APPROPRIATION BILL MEASURE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

RICHMOND, Va., Mar. 5.—Any increase in the general appropriation bill, which is on the Senate calendar for action today, will be opposed in the House.

Approximately $35,000 has been added to the bill by the Senate Finance Committee since it left the House. This increase includes an addition of $1,000 in the salaries of each member of the State Corporation Commission; $4,000 to $4,500 commissioner of agriculture; $3,000 to $3,500, assistant commissioner, and $2,000 to $3,500 first clerk of the auditor.

The committee also restored to their original figures the appropriations to the Dairymen's Association, crop pest commission, horticultural society and state fair.

Delegate Lindsay Gordon, of Louisiana, known as the "watchdog of Virginia's treasury, who has fought every salary increase proposed in the House this session, already has announced his intention of opposing the changes made by the Senate Finance Committee in the event the upper body approves their retention in the general bill.

As passed by the House, the measure contained a total of $24,065,353.53 for the biennium. The bill was accepted by the lower body as it came from the committee.

When the appropriation bill was reached at 12:45 p. m., as a special order, the Senate postponed its consideration until the late afternoon session in order not to interrupt consideration of the House measures up for advancement.

The House consumed the early part of its session in advancing local and uncontented Senate bills. Thirty-five of these measures were passed in one block.

A. E. Johns, chapter, U. D. C., will hold a meeting on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All members are urged to come prepared to pay up their dues.

TWO MEASURES BY M'COTTER ARE REPORTED

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

RICHMOND, Mar. 5.—Two measures, one designed to increase the license tax on heavy trucks and the other to establish free employment agencies in the state, received favorable reports today in Senate committees.

The truck bill was passed several days ago and the Senate committee decided to accept it in preference to a measure by Senator Byrd, Winchester, on the same subject. A provision in the McCotter bill that trucks for hire should pay a fifty per cent. higher license than machines used for other purposes was struck out by the Senate roads and internal navigation committee.

Quick action was taken on the free employment bureau measure. It was passed by the House last night and approved by the Senate Finance Committee when presented today. The commissioner of labor would have charge of the bureau and the work would be carried on in conjunction with the federal government. The bill carries an appropriation of $2,500 a year.

The Senate Finance Committee approved the House bill providing for the establishment of a school for the blind at Charlottesville. The bill would separate the school for the blind and deaf at Staunton and appropriate $2,000 for the establishment of the school for the blind at Charlottesville.

Court Docket Is Now Almost Clear

Action taken in the corporation court this morning virtually cleared up the docket leaving only three more cases to be disposed of by juries until Friday morning when the court's business for the present term will probably be disposed of. As yet no pleas of guilty or continuances. It was possible this morning to dispense with the petit jury until Friday morning.

Cases remaining to be tried include S. E. Ferguson, charged under a section of the Mapp act with carrying a firearm while in the alleged act of violating the liquor law and Lonnie Haden, who is charged with second degree murder.

The case of Harvey Centry, a negro charged with manslaughter was today continued until the May term because of the inability to secure certain evidence. The case of a negro involving a further alleged liquor law violation also was continued until May. Dix's bond of $500 was renewed.

William Royster, a negro, charged with receiving goods stolen from W. E. Covington's hardware store and the New York store was put on trial before a jury this morning and was acquitted of the charges. A second indictment against him was nolle prossed.

Ed Wilson charged with participating in the above robbery, having a part in the breaking in of the stores, pleaded guilty on three indictments. He will be sentenced to serve one year in each case next Saturday morning.

Zenora Street Noble, a negro, charged with cutting Mary Neal, colored, was tried this morning before the court. Judgment was suspended until another witness could be heard at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

BURY MR. LOUHOFF TODAY.

Funeral services for W. C. Louhoff who died on Monday morning will be conducted at three o'clock this afternoon from the home at Stokesland. The interment will be in Green Hill cemetery where the Roman Catholic ladies of Massena jointly officiate with the Odd Fellows.

PLAN FARMERS' RALLY TO DISCUSS COTTON GROWING

The agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting yesterday afternoon and reached the decision to hold a rally of farmers in Danville, tentatively on March 14th with a view of giving them authentic information on the subject of cotton growing. Crop diversification in view of the large increase in the tobacco acreage in the far Southern states has been taken up by the Chamber of Commerce with renewed vigor and the time is now thought to be ripe to put at the disposition of the farmers of this section reliable information.

Secretary Henry B. Watkins this morning made it plain that the Chamber of Commerce is not attempting to persuade the farmers to grow cotton nor to influence them along this line. It is felt by the organization that a distinct service can be rendered the farmers by giving them an opportunity to hear the matter discussed.

The committee requested Mr. Watkins to get in touch with T. E. Hutchison, the Extension Division of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, asking him to come to Danville on March 18th to make an address. J. A. Evans, assistant chief of extension work of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, is being invited to come to Danville at the same time to address the farmers. Other details of the meeting, such as the time and place remain to be worked out and will be given publicity when they have been decided upon.

Further evidence of the interest of the Chamber of Commerce and its desire to serve the farming element is indicated by the fact that it is prepared to finance the retention in Danville and the surrounding counties for a period of three months, a cotton growing expert who would be willing to devote his time and energy in instructing farmers in the technique of cotton raising. During the period of his service he would visit the farms and give valuable assistance to the growers.

The prime purpose of this movement is to give the farmers an opportunity to grow two-money crops in view of the continued and large increase in the growth of tobacco in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama where the boll weevil infection has made the production of cotton, the staple crop, a risky undertaking.

Warren Speaking for Pittssylvanians Declares They Cannot Vote For Charter Measure—Measure Provided For Election of Charter Commission by Wards.

The Garrett charter bill, providing for the election of a commission of a ward basis to draft a new instrument for the city of Danville will not pass the House, it was learned this afternoon.

The measure was adopted yesterday by the Senate after it had been favorably reported by the Senate committee on counties, cities and towns and it was then sent to the House committee for its approval. The bill was on the calendar for consideration when announcement was made by C. R. Warren, of Chatham, that the Pittsylvania delegation in the House would not support the Garrett measure.

Following is the text of the charter bill as was carried in this paper some days ago:

"1.—Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia that on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1924, there shall be elected in each of the six wards of the city of Danville, by the qualified voters of each ward, two qualified voters of that ward to be members of a charter commission for the city of Danville, which charter commission shall have the powers and duties hereinafter prescribed.

"2.—The election aforesaid shall be conducted in all respects in accordance with the general election laws of the commonwealth of Virginia, excepting herein provided. It shall be the duty of all candidates for the position of member of the charter commission to file their names with the electoral board of the city of Danville at least thirty days before the date of the election and it shall be the duty of the regular election officers to prepare the ballots and otherwise to provide for the conduct of the election.

"3.—The commission so elected shall organize by electing one of their number chairman and another secretary. If necessary, the commission may employ clerical assistance, and the council of the city of Danville shall provide for the payment of compensation to the persons so employed, but it is hereby made the duty of all existing officers and employees of the city of Danville to render the commission all the aid and assistance in their power.

"4.—It shall be the duty of said commission to make a thorough study of the charter of the city of Danville, to compare such charter with the charters of other cities, to confer with city officers and citizens, and to prepare a complete draft of a proposed new charter for the said city. After the draft shall have been prepared, and before the beginning of the next ensuing regular session of the general assembly, the commission shall present the draft to the members of the general assembly, together with a report thereon, and request that the bill be introduced in the general assembly for such action as the general assembly may see fit to take."

ORDERS WRECKING OF ILL. BREWERIES

(By the Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, March 4.—United States District Attorney Edwin A. Olson today delivered to Marshal Robert Levy, a court order for the destruction of the equipment, machinery and plant of the Elgin Ice and Beverage Company. The plant is valued at more than $200,000.
Similar orders against fourteen other breweries in northern Illinois, now closed by injunction will be sought, Mr. Olson announced.
Lawrence Croley and Richard Russell, owners of the brewery, already have paid fines aggregating $25,000 and must pay approximately $50,000 more in tax penalties. In addition each is under sentence to serve six months in the Chicago house of correction. Their terms will begin next Monday.

A COLORED BOY IS BURNED TO DEATH

Taft Adams, negro boy about 15 years of age, died at Providence Hospital yesterday morning about 5 or 6 o'clock as the result of burns suffered Sunday night. The boy was working on a farm near Chatham at the time of his misfortune and it is stated that a lamp in the room occupied by the boy was about to explode. He seized the lamp and started to throw it out of the house when his clothing became ignited and he was so badly burned that he later died. The burns extended practically over the whole of the boy's body.

Carnival Nears Interest Climax

Last night, the third of the Mike's seven-night carnival, somewhat exceeded the attendance record of Tuesday night and was satisfactory in every way to the members of Danville Lodge, No. 27, E. P. O. E. for the charity fund of which the entertainment is arranged. As one of the previous evenings, the crowd assembled early and during the period until 1 p. m. the rooms were thronged and brilliant and business was lively, with no incident to mar the pleasure of those attending.

As on Saturday and Monday evenings, excellent music, a fine vaudeville bill embracing a series of good "turns" put on by a professional company, dancing until 12:30 a. m. and the various diversions familiar to all such entertainments held the interest and attention of the crowd. As in all shows of a carnival character, the crowd itself is an important part of the enjoyment program, especially when it is a congenial crowd out for an evening's diversion and entertainment. Pretty girls in fetching frocks, ladies a bit older and men of all ages commingled in the surging throng which moved from room to room watching the wheels go around even as the hands of the clock sped around the circuit as they have a way of doing when time is passing pleasantly. It is estimated that the crowd slightly exceeded that of Monday evening, thus indicating that the carnival is advancing toward its zenith in point of interest.

The attendance prize of $10 was drawn by Louis Berman last night, while hundreds awaited the announcement with a hope that he or she might be the lucky one. This nightly award of the "X" has proved a surprisingly good holder of a crowd. The vaudeville bill presented a variety in point of entertainment, embracing a good blackface comedy turn and musical and dancing features which were well received by the crowd. The hall was crowded during the vaudeville acts. After that the side entrance began to open, but the girls and young men were held by the six-piece orchestra and the alluring dance melodies dispensed, and soon the dancing floor was thronged by swarming, swaying pairs moving in time with the music. Whenever the music stopped for a breathing spell, an insistent hand-clapping caused a resumption and—more dancing.

All of the sales devices by means of which choice, hams and beans, and a variety of commodities and articles were distributed reported satisfactory business, and the management as a whole expressed satisfaction with the results of the evening's entertainment. In fact, the success of the benefit is already assured.

On Friday evening about 10 o'clock, vocal music by a male quartette will be an added attraction.
Tonight's program is expected to be the best yet. It will embrace the variety of entertainment and appeal of the preceding nights, with others in addition and promises to be marked by the largest attendance yet. The number of entering the doors can be gauged with fair accuracy by the tickets punched, most of those attending having season tickets which sell for a dollar. Another dollar entitles one to the dancing privilege.

DR. J. P. CRAFT TO SPEAK ON CHURCH EDUCATION

This evening at 7:45 o'clock at the First Baptist church Dr. J. P. Craft, president of Averett College, who spent last week in attendance on and participation in the convention of the American Education association at Chicago, will make an address to the congregation with reference to the work of that body and interpreting its action as to various phases of religious-educational work and activity. The religious reactions recently and the effect of these on education, and the wisdom of adapting religious education more peculiarly to the needs of the time will have an important part in the speaker's theme.

YOUR GARDEN

ARTICLE NO. 2

SOIL PREPARATION

Once you have the site for your garden selected, the next thing to do is get ready to plant it.

If the surface ground is so hard it cannot be spaded or plowed, a mattock should be used and the soil broken to a depth of eight or 10 inches.

Plenty of manure should be turned under, but do not use straw and millshavings on garden land.

Nothing is gained by working the land before it is sufficiently dry.

And remember that the longer rest you allow between spading and plating, the better your garden will grow.

Plants do not live by water alone. They require air, too.

And the only chance air has of reaching the roots is by filtering into the ground after it has been turned and broken.

To see if the soil is ready for planting after you have prepared it, press a small quantity in the palm of the hand.

If it is too wet for working it will adhere in a solid mass. But if dry enough to work it will crumble apart.

Should conditions be favorable following this test, rake and hoe the soil to a depth of four to five inches.

Goal ashes have little value as fertilizer. Their function when employed is mainly to loosen the soil and make it workable.

Retted leaves also make good fertilizer.

But organic matter obtained from barnyards should be employed with care as it may burn the seeds if placed in direct contact with them.

Best results are obtained with commercial fertilizers, where there is plenty of manure or organic matter in the soil.

Nitrate of soda is frequently used as a side-dressing, especially with crops grown for their leaf value, rather than for fruit.

The ideal soil is a dark sandy loam rich in organic relative matter to hold large quantities of moisture, which carry the crops through periods of drought.

Be sure you have all debris, such as tin cans, rocks and other trash removed from the land before planting.

Expensive tools for the garden are not necessary. A good spade or spading fork, a hoe, a steel rake, a trowel and a watering can are all the implements required for cultivation of the small plot.

If weeds grow rank upon the land, it is a good indication that the soil is good.

But don't plant anything near the weeds and oak. These trees steal the moisture and food from the crops.

BOYS LINE UP

Rocky Mount High School boys line up for the basketball team. The team consists of Stuart, Dickinson, L. F., Frith, R. F., Powell, C., Laprade, R. G., and Bennett, L. F.

Guests out of town attending the game were Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Nicholson, Misses Esie Irene and Ruth Nicholson, Miss Cynthia Callaway, and Messrs Wilson Nicholson, Earnest Easter, O. T. Ferguson, Guy Nelson, and Herbert Lewis of Perus.

After the basketball game Saturday evening, Miss Kate Smithers entertained the players and visitors at an enjoyable dance. Delightful informality prevailed, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mrs. Lucy Divers with her son, Thomas Divers of Roanoke, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Morris for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Morris also had their son, Harry C. Morris, who is a student at the National Business College in Roanoke for their week-end guest.

Miss Alberta Price has arrived, and is the house guest of Miss Alice Greer, of Church street.

Miss Louise Dillard who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. H. H. Dillard, for the past several months, has returned to Rocky Mount.

Mrs. C. B. Willis, Mrs. J. B. Ailman, and Miss Emmeline Pearson were shoppers in Roanoke, Saturday.

Mrs. J. E. Swanson left today for Charlottesville, being called there by the illness of a relative.

Mrs. F. H. Watkins left today for Farmville, to visit her mother, Mrs. W. D. Martin.

Local Mills Will Work 3-Day Basis

It is learned that notices have been posted in the various departments of the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills that beginning at once, three-fourths of the machinery is to be stopped on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays until further notice. This makes a working schedule of three days per week for these departments.

Unsatisfactory market conditions are of course responsible for the step taken. On account of the grave shortage in the world's supply of cotton the cost of the raw materials is high, whereas prices of manufactured goods have declined until they are now on a basis considerably less than replacement cost.

It is thought by leading factors throughout the country that present prices for raw cotton are more than any uncertainty that is likely to attend fluctuations in value incident to the next crop of cotton, and that the heavy curtailment now going on is the shortest route to a return of normal conditions.

Formal announcement of this curtailment is but a fulfillment of expectations on the part of men familiar with conditions in the textile industry. It was foreboded as a possibility as far back as last November when the great Danville textile plant operated for three weeks on a two-and-a-half days a week basis. Last week the plants operated on a 2-days a week schedule. These various measures were tentative and were designed to produce better marketing conditions if that were possible without the curtailment which has now been ordered.

The Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills employ approximately 5,000 persons, that if three-fourths of the machinery be stopped for the next three days each week, it means that approximately 1,500 persons will continue to be employed on full time, while 3,500 will work a little more than half-time each week during the curtailment period. The three-days-a-week suspension, it will be noted include the half-day Saturday, so that some 1,500 employees will be working six-eighths of the week and 3,500 four-eighths.

The planing of an unusually large cotton crop this spring, involving a materially increased acreage will tend to lower the price of the raw material, while the curtailment of the leading spinners will tend to exhaust the over-supply of manufactured fabrics which is now depressing and will stimulate the demand and thereby enable spinners to increase their production. In a word, the elementary economic law of supply and demand by a readjustment relation must work a remedy, as they have produced present conditions.

Grand Jury Makes Report On Prison

The corporation court grand jury yesterday completed its labors and adjourned after making a comprehensive report on the city prison. The physical property of the prison was found to be kept in a thoroughly satisfactory manner insofar as the building itself permits but the grand jury intimated in unmincing terms the whole Virginia prison system which in one particular is called "barbarous." Complaint was made more especially about a system which permits persons confined for wrongdoing to retaliate for their terms and in condemning it, the grand jury offers it to the people of Danville as a matter for serious consideration.

Judge Withers thanked the grand jury for its work and said that a recommendation for the repairing of certain plumbing and the repainting of the jail is undertaken.

The text of the report, which will be certified to the city council, is as follows:

The grand jury in obedience to your instructions has visited and inspected the city jail.

We are gratified to be able to report that the sanitary conditions and general cleanliness of both the interior and surroundings is, on the whole, satisfactory with the exception of some of the toilets due, however, not to lack of attention on the part of the custodians but to defects due to wear and tear, and we recommend:

1.—That the necessary plumbing repairs throughout the building be ordered done.

2.—That the metal and woodwork inside and out including the fence around the yard be repainted.

With these two simple needs met and remedied and assuming the jail is kept always as clean as we found it today we believe the sanitary conditions thereof could be as good as it is probably possible to attain in the present building and under present conditions and yet with the impression of our visit fresh in our minds, and realizing how few of our citizens are so happy as the prisoners, we feel it our duty to call attention to what we feel to be fundamentally and radically wrong in the whole situation.

First, lack of space, arrangement and facilities in building and yard for allowing prisoners air and exercise. Prisoners are now confined continuously for the term in steel cages set on all sides four or five feet from the interior walls making impossible proper and sufficient ventilation necessary for the number of prisoners confined in the restricted space.

Second, lack of employment for inmates. The larger majority of the prisoners are kept in absolute idleness during the whole terms of their confinement.

We realize we are raising a big problem but we consider it a most serious one and conceive it to be our duty to set it forth and lay on the public conscience.

The generally accepted standard of prison administration should not be our criterion for it is admittedly low and a relic of the dark ages. The close unremitted confinement of human beings in unhealthy surroundings during the week-end in absolute idleness is little short of barbarous and we believe the public conscience should be quickened to this conception in order that public opinion may react to remedy and reform these deplorable conditions.

We respectfully submit these considerations hoping we are not thereby transcending our powers and privileges.

When the grand jury visited the jail on Monday afternoon it was found to be unusually well filled, there being 85 persons confined, many of these being apprehended during the week-end by police officers who raided a number of "crap" games and arrested an unusual number of drunks.

The idleness of some of the prisoners probably will be overcome when the city council work this spring when the city rock quarry will be operated for the purpose of securing stone in connection with the complaint made as to lack of occupation among prisoners. It is recalled that a measure was presented to the Virginia General Assembly which, if passed, would have resulted in the establishment of state farms for inmates where all such offenders would be given healthful work.

Danville Baseball to Begin On 31st

Manager Herb Murphy, of the Danville team, champions of the Piedmont league, is on his way. He is traveling in his motor-car from his home at Thomasville, Ga., and was in Charlotte, N. C., yesterday. This is taken to indicate that he will probably reach Danville late this evening or early tomorrow.

Mr. Murphy has leased the home on Paxton street which he occupied last season and will be very much at home in Danville, where everybody knows him and likes him.

The try-outs for the Tobaccocon team are expected to report here about March 15th. In a sense, they are mostly try-outs for Danville, for most of them are said to be men who have demonstrated that they can play ball. Most of them are men from other leagues, but they have been accurately indexed in their value. Around the four-men nucleus from last year's team, Owner Murphy will have little difficulty in selecting from the men he has signed sufficient good material to round of a team.

The players will have only ten or twelve days of work-out before they will have a chance to show what they can do in actual test. Games have been arranged for the Murphy's Rocky Mount team, the well known Bronchos of Virginia league, Warrenton, and the Danville team.

The status of "Mike" Baker, formerly with Danville and still under contract to Owen Murphy, is not yet definitely announced. Mr. Murphy at last accounts had no intention of releasing him, but anticipated that he could trade or sell him to advantage. Baker was under suspension last season, but this suspension has been raised, it is understood, and he is now eligible to play.

With the coming of the players—as unerring a harbinger of Spring as the first blue-bird, a revival of baseball enthusiasm is anticipated. Ranking as champions and with a big blue pennant to flit with the breezes at Stoneval Jackson park, the game will draw from the first season practice game. And incidentally some good ball-players are expected to be seen here in these early games.

GALA EVENT IN KNIGHT TEMPLAR HISTORY

The event of the week and indeed of the year thus far in Masonic circles will be the big banquet and inspection of the Danville Knights Templar Temple at tomorrow evening in Masonic Temple. Grand Commander E. R. Fuller and Messrs. Eddy and Hankins, the other visiting grand officers are expected to arrive early tomorrow afternoon. Indications now point to an assemblage of more than 200 Knights in full uniform in the inspection, which will require one of the large rooms on the tenth floor of the temple.

Arrangements for the banquet indicate that it will be the largest Knight Templar gathering around the festival board in the history of this city. Chatham, Martinville, South Boston, Chatham, and various points in the four surrounding counties will all send good delegations, and the local plumed knights will be out in force. The program for the evening is an excellent one, and so is the menu for this occasion. The committees in charge having done excellent work.

CONFESSION THAT WOULD HAVE CLEARED WALL ST. EXPLOSION PROVES FALSE

Man In London Implicates
Himself and Six Others,
But Inability to Find Them, Resulting in Discovery. He Was in Jail at Time of Blast Which Took Thirty Lives.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, March 5.—Whatever hopes the New York police had of solving the mystery of the famous Wall street explosion through the reported confession of Ralph Thuerber flickered and vanished today when the police were advised that Thuerber was in San Quentin penitentiary, California, when the explosion occurred. Thuerber's story, which was made known to District Attorney Banton through a telegram from Secretary of State Hughes to Governor Smith was seriously questioned by detectives after they had failed to find the addresses of two men whom Thuerber, in an affidavit in a London prison, implicated in the explosion. Reports from other cities, the police said, indicated that other details in the confession were valueless.

Thuerber, advised said, was sentenced to San Quentin prison in February, 1920, for a three-year term. He was released two years later. The Wall street explosion, which killed 30 persons and injured scores, occurred on September 16, 1920.

Messages from London said Thuerber had made his confession to the American consul general in London and that official sent it to Secretary Hughes, who forwarded it to Governor Smith. The latter, in turn, got in touch with District Attorney Banton who ordered an immediate checkup.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, March 5.—The confession of Ralph Thuerber, prisoner in a London penitentiary, implicating himself and a number of other persons in the Wall street explosion of September 16, 1920, in which 30 persons lost their lives and scores of others were injured, today was the object of an intensive inquiry by police and the district attorney's office, which pointed out, however, that a number of similar inquiries in the past had been fruitless.

Officials plainly indicated their desire to plumb the new clue before embarking on extradition proceedings which were suggested by the American consul general in London, who sent word of Thuerber's confession to District Attorney Banton through Secretary of State Hughes and Governor Smith.

The message from London made public yesterday quoted Thuerber as having said all details of the plot and the names of the conspirators were known to Rev. Herbert Wilson, of San Diego and Los Angeles, Calif.

It was pointed out that William J. Burns, head of the secret service, last year questioned Wilson and was satisfied he had no part in the crime.

SEARCH FOR ALLEGED WOMAN ASSOCIATE FUTURE

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 5.—Search here for the Miss O'Day mentioned in a purported confession by Ralph Thuerber in London yesterday implicating himself and others in the Wall street bomb explosion of 1920, has been unsuccessful.

The address at which Miss O'Day was said to be living—156 Glendale boulevard, Los Angeles—does not exist, and at 16 Glendale boulevard, no such person as Miss O'Day ever had been known, according to investigators.

Postoffice inspectors who investigated the mail robbery career of Herbert Wilson also mentioned in the alleged confession, say they found no woman associate named O'Day.

DEPORTATION TROUBLES.

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, March 5.—Ralph Thuerber, prisoner in Pentonville jail, who has confessed to implication in the Wall street bomb explosion of 1920, recently came to England in defiance of a deportation order sending him to America, says the Daily Sketch. The paper adds that the only explanation of his motive for returning here is his own statement that he came to recover a debt of 1x10. He is said to have travelled by way of Paris and Antwerp, landing in England and Harwich.

Thuerber is declared to have left his home in the United States when 16 years old to join the Canadian army. It was apparently while serving with the Canadian forces in France that he got into trouble under circumstances causing suspicion that he was acting as a spy and resulting in his deportation.

Thuerber, who is about 25 years old, described as a desperate character, is under heavy guard in the Pentonville jail and will continue to be closely watched until extradition proceedings are completed and New York detectives arrive to take him back to America.

No Americans have seen Thuerber, but his statement which was forwarded to Washington by the British Home Office, is accepted here as truthful. No one is permitted to visit the prisoner, and it is impossible to obtain from the officials who have seen the confession any indication of the motive ascribed by him for the Wall Street crime.

Minister Freed of Mann Act Charge by Jury

(By The Associated Press.)
BUFFALO, N. Y., Mar. 5.—Rev. Frederick P. Johnson, former pastor of the Pilgrim church of Mansfield, Ohio, has been exonerated of a charge of violating the Mann act in a partial report of the federal grand jury. Rev. Johnson was arrested in Jamestown, N. Y., last week with Miss Pearl L. Dabbenok, soloist in his church. He was brought to Buffalo on a federal warrant.

The clergyman declined to make any statement when a no-bill was returned. He left the federal building a few minutes after the report was made, accompanied by his wife and 18 months old daughter, who came here from Mansfield after his arrest.

Minister Will Continue Boxing Despite Protests

(By The Associated Press.)
DENVER, Colo., Mar. 5.—Despite a hundred or more protests from scores of citizens from New York to San Francisco, Rev. B. R. Kessler, pastor of the Merit Memorial Methodist church here, declares he will continue boxing bouts after his semi-monthly prayer meetings, the next such program being set for tonight.

"I am not in favor of prize fighting," says the Rev. Kessler, "but I am very much in favor of clean athletics and amateur sport. I have told my boys that those who can use boxing gloves will not use knives or guns."

HOME DEMONSTRATION WEEK.

RICHMOND, March 3.—Demonstrations in bread making and clothing were given yesterday and will be continued today at a conference of the home demonstration agents of the Virginia Extension University school. The agents attending this conference are from the counties of eastern Virginia. This conference will be continued in Petersburg on March 5 and 6.

The subjects of bread making and clothing were adopted by the home demonstration agents in conference at Blacksburg, in January as the two special units of work for the women of Virginia. When as many as five women in a community desire that work, Miss Slocum, district home demonstration agent states the local agent will organize the class and give four demonstrations in either clothing or foods.

The demonstrations in Richmond and Petersburg will be under the direction of Miss Lulu Walker, food specialist, and Miss Eldona Oliver, clothing specialist, both of the extension division V. F. I.

—Miss Mary Smith is confined to her home, Mount Vernon Terrace, with a severe cold.

HEAR FURTHER ARGUMENTS ON SOLDIER BONUS

Following Executive Session, Adjournment Is Taken Until Tomorrow.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—A two fold soldier bonus plan providing options of full cash payments or paid up insurance was proposed to the House Ways and Means Committee today by a committee of veterans representing House Democrats.

Representative Jeffers, Alabama, chairman of the Democratic committee who presented the plan, argued the government owed former service men adjusted compensation which should be offered in the "coin of the realm."

Full cash payments would eliminate administrative difficulties and cost involve in other bonus programs, Mr. Jeffers said, and would enable the government to settle the whole question in a year.

If all veterans elected to take the cash payments, Mr. Jeffers said, it would cost $131,950,000, which could be met by a bond issue. He favored compensation for army officers up to the rank of captain.

The same basis of figuring adjusted compensation used in the bill passed by the House for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service—would be applied in the plan and payments would be limited to $500 for home service and $625 for overseas service.

Under the McKenzie bill, now before the committee, which is similar to that vetoed by President Harding, cash payments would go only to those not entitled to more than $50. Other members of the committee are Representatives Rankin, Mississippi, Milligan, Montana, Connery, Massachusetts and Browning, Tennessee.

Before receiving the Democratic plan, the committee acquired into the bill a request of the ex-service men's anti-bonus league. Knowlton Durham, president of the organization, presented a list of contributors to the league and explained that it was operated on a voluntary basis. The $1 dues of members being optional.

The league now has about 20,000 members, Durham said, and $96,000 has been spent in its operations, the expenses now running about $2,000 a month.

Explaining his opposition to the bonus, Durham declared he and members of the league believed the men of this country went to war to protect their own homes and families and therefore the question of wages should not be considered. He said he was a member of the American Legion.

Harbert Davenport, of Texas, presented a request of men he commanded in the war for a bonus. He said until recently he had opposed the bonus but found that men who volunteered and worked as mechanics in the air service considered adjusted compensation as rightly due them, since others of their age and joined shipyard crews and earned as much in a week as they did in a month.

The House Ways and Means Committee, in winding up its public hearing on soldier bonus legislation, heard further arguments today for inclusion of cash payment options in any adjusted compensation measure it adopts.

The variety of proposals laid before the committee in the three days of the hearing are expected to occupy the committee for a longer time than it had planned to devote to the drafting of a measure. Chairman Green had planned to have a bill ready to report to the House by Saturday but now it is feared this may not be possible.

Emphasis has been placed during the hearing on a paid up insurance proposition, some members of the committee favoring restricting the bonus entirely to such a plan, but considerable opposition has developed to incorporation of such a limitation.

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 5.—A treaty of friendship between Germany and Turkey was signed yesterday, says an agency dispatch from Constantinople. This was forecast in a Constantinople message on Monday.

ANOTHER HIRAM JOHNSTON IS HEARD OF, BUT HE IS DEAD

(By The Associated Press.)
BAY CITY, Mich., Mar. 5.—Hiram Johnston is dead. Life was buried in Oak Ridge cemetery here last July.

Thus further confusion is added to the Michigan presidential primary election of April 7 next in which the name of "Hiram Johnston" was to have appeared in the Republican column with the names of Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, President Calvin Coolidge and William G. Simpson, of Detroit. Johnston's name was ordered stricken from the ballot yesterday by Secretary of State Charles Deland upon receipt of a letter purporting to come from "Hiram Johnston" of Milwaukee Township. The letter was a scrawled sentence asking simply that his name would be withdrawn. It was dated "Milwaukee, Mich." and was presented to the secretary of state by John Baird, state conservation commissioner, whose home is at Zilwaukee. The letter bore no postmark "Milwaukee" is not listed in post office guides. The correct name of the man who died last July is on the records as Martin Hiram Johnston. He was better known as "Paddy" Johnston. He lived in a houseboat on the Saginaw River and was employed as watchman by the North American Chemical Company of this city.

CONFLICTING STORIES.

(By The Associated Press.)
LANSING, Mich., March 5.—Anyone who doubts the existence of the "Hiram Johnston" whose name was certified for the Michigan presidential primary election, and then ordered stricken from the ballot, may have virtual proof that he lives by accompanying John Baird, State conservation commissioner, into the swamps of Zilwaukee Township next Saturday. Baird hurled this challenge to the skeptics today almost at the same time that newspaper men learned that a "Hiram Johnston" who lived in the same neighborhood as Baird's "Zilwaukee Hiram" died last July and is buried in a Bay City cemetery.

INJUNCTION ISSUED

(By The Associated Press.)
BOSTON, Mar. 5.—Federal Morton today issued a temporary injunction restraining the F. Redmon Company, Inc., investment brokers, from continuing business in this city. A hearing was set for tomorrow.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the firm today. The petitioning creditors, all printers or stationers, presented claims totalling $3,388. They alleged preferential payments to other creditors.

APPROVE AGREEMENT.

(By The Associated Press.)
MOSCOW, March 5.—The Council of Commissars has approved the Russo-Italian trade agreement, recently negotiated. It will be sent to the Central Executive committee for final ratification.

Miss Herman Honored

Miss Lucille Herman for whom many parties are being given this week, was again complimented yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Stanley Cunningham was hostess at a charming bridge party given at her home on West Main street.

The rooms were lovely with spring flowers, carrying out a color scheme of yellow and green. Pretty favors and dainty little yellow baskets of almonds and mints which were served with the courses, further carried out the attractive colors. The guest of honor was presented a handsome piece of embroidery as a souvenir of the occasion. The high-score prize a salad set, was won by Mrs. Lois Kaufman.

Those present were, Misses Lucille Herman, Lucy Lee Fitzgerald, Katie Green, Guernant, Mesdames Allen Herman, Herbert Hoffman, Louis Kaufman, George George, Edwin Meade, Bessie Bass, N. C. Jones, Kirk Watkins, Clyde Bailey, Mrs. B. H. Herman, of Indianapolis, Mrs. Harry Calisch, of Richmond.

This exercise is excellent for people who work with their arms held down as typists and pianists. It gives relaxation and flattens the shoulder blades.

Tells Mission Time Has Not Come For Separation—Expresses Confidence in Ability and Intentions of Wood.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Coolidge informed the Philippine Independence Mission today that in his opinion the time has not yet come for separation of the Philippine from the United States.

In a letter to Manuel Roxas, chairman of the mission the President also declared that the United States government "has full confidence in the ability, good intentions, fairness and sincerity of Governor General Wood."

In the present state of world relations, the President said, "the American government owes an obligation to continue extending a protecting arm to the people of these islands."

Mr. Coolidge's letter was written in reply to resolutions passed by the island legislature asking for independence and attacking General Wood. The President's views are expected to have weight in House consideration of a bill providing for independence, recently reported by the insular committee.

This measure committee members say, was brought in merely to place the question squarely before the House itself for discussion.

"The government of the United States," the President wrote, "would not feel that it had performed its full duty by the Philippine people or discharged all of its obligations to civilization if it should yield at this time to your aspiration for national independence."

"The government is convinced," the President said, "that General Wood, who was attacked in the resolutions of the Philippine legislative bodies, had intended to act and has acted within the scope of his proper and constitutional authority."

"Thus," he continued, "it is determined to sustain him, and its purpose will be to encourage the broadest and most intelligent co-operation of the Filipino people in this respect."

Looking at the whole situation fairly and impartially one cannot but feel that if the Filipino people cannot co-operate in the support and encouragement of as good an administration as has been afforded by General Wood their failure will be rather a testimony of unpreparedness for the full obligations of citizenship than an evidence of patriotic preparedness to advance their country."

FASHION NOTES

RIBBONED HATS
Wide loops of grosgrain ribbon outline the crown of a smart small brimmed hat of black straw.

ACCESSORIES
A hat, parasol and scarf of brilliant plaid silk needs only the plainest, straightline frock to emphasize its style.

BLACK AND BLUE
The scarf of black satin with a close, conventional border embroidered in colorful yarns is most effective with the blue serge frock.

KNITTED DRESSES
Knitted dresses in blue, gray and the pastel shades have the most interesting and colorful patterns woven in the border.

CAPE TO MATCH
Capes to match frocks are a feature in this year's styles. They vary in length from shoulder to hemline.

LITTLE TRIMMING
Frocks of shaded chiffon and georgette are very youthful and need only a silver girdle or a sash as trimming.

CARVED WOOD BUCKLES
Slipper buckles of carved wood are an unusual accessory—most effective with tan or light colored pumps.

FATAL GUN BATTLE

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—Trade in cotton yarns is dull with manufacturers buying for current needs only. About 75 per cent of the orders on dealers' books are for delivery within the next sixty days. Prices are lower than last month.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

At last I have heard the whole story, my dear Bee, and it would be intensely amusing if it were not rather tragic.

It seems Paula Perier was called the prettiest girl in Albany and that she posed for the Acme Advertising Company so often that she was known as "The Acme Girl" to all their clients in Albany. However, she was known as "Jack Prescott's little playmate."

They were always together and he seemed proud to be seen with her in all public places.

Everyone seemed to think she adored him.

All at once, greatly to the surprise of everyone, his marriage was announced to Leslie Hamilton. He brought his bride home very soon and Paula disappeared.

It is now whispered that the child which the Prescotts have adopted was placed upon its father's doorstep by Paula herself. A nice, little story, isn't it? How much of gossip and how much of truth is in it, I do not know.

Just to see what Mr. Prescott would say after I heard this story, I handed him a poem the other day. I cut it out of a magazine. Here it is:

THE LAW OF LOVE
A man may make for his love a bed, And though they be inated, he is not wed.

A man may love with his soul aloof— But a woman is wedded in wail and woe.

And he is not bad, and he is but a man, And such he was when the world began.

A martyr, a hero, a sage, a saint— And a woman, venerate, in ill-restraint.

"I will love me one, I will love me two, And unto both shall my heart be true."

But this is the price that he pays That he is not saint in all his days.

This is the law that was made of One man, not squander his love's bright gold; One may not flout his real true mate, Or life will render him back in hate.

This is the law, break which, O man, You walk accurst among your clan; Albeit you love in dark or day— Peace shall flee from your skulking way.

Wiser, O woman—yeapt the fool, You are queen of love, who seem its tool; Trusty, steadfast, tender, true— Life shall bend its knee to you!

Here he comes now. Will finish this letter at first opportunity. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

TOMORROW: Sally continues her letter—Love, for man and woman.

What's in your Wardrobe?

An important question this, with Easter and Spring approaching. For it is often possible to create new gowns out of old, to restore suits and overwraps to unthoughtful usefulness. This modern service is efficient, because it cleanses and handles scientifically, all men's, women's and children's apparel, because it is dependable, too, and a saver of expense. By using it now, you will doubtless find certain purchases unnecessary in outfitting for a new season.

Warning—High class cleaning is a complicated process. It can be done properly only by highly skilled people with costly machinery and equipment. Be careful in the selection of your cleaner.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Doan's Backache Pills are the only pills that cure backache, kidney trouble, and all the ailments that result from a weak back. They are sold by druggists everywhere.

Is Winter Time Your Backache Time?

DOES every cold, chill or grip leave you lame, aching and all worn out? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going another day? Do you know these troubles are often due to weakened kidneys? Winter's colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. The kidneys are apt to weaken and fall behind in filtering the blood. Poisons accumulate and upset blood and nerves. Then comes constant backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and kidney irregularities. Don't wait! Delay is often serious. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They are recommended by many Danville folks. Ask your neighbor: "Use Doan's," Say These Danville Folks:

J. T. Allen, fireman, 714 E. Green St., says: "I had trouble with my back and kidneys a few years ago. My kidneys became disordered and I was much disturbed by a dull ache in my back. I felt miserable and my kidneys didn't act right, the secretions being unnatural in appearance. I got Doan's Pills at McFall's Drug Store and I received splendid results. One bottle of Doan's cured me of that dreadful pain and my kidneys acted as they should. I felt better in every way."

Mrs. Lucinda Hendley, 423 Cherry St., N. Danville, says: "I was practically laid up with a weak back and I never will forget the dreadful pains which pierced the small of my back. I was just miserable and my head ached nearly all the time. When I sat down, it was next to impossible to get back on my feet. My kidneys didn't act as they should. Doan's Pills from Clanton's Drug Store relieved me of that dreadful pain and my kidneys acted as they should. I felt better in every way."

167 VETERANS IN LEAVENWORTH

By GEORGE BRITT
LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Mar. 5.—A box of cigars came in the mail to the United States disciplinary barracks here. It was addressed to Adrian Taylor, chief prisoner clerk, and virtually private secretary to Warden Biddle. Taylor enlisted in the army when the war started and fought on half a dozen sectors of the front, and in the five years since he has been a prisoner there hasn't been one scratch on his record. He has 30 years yet to serve.
The sender of the cigars was Lothar Witzke, the only enemy spy in the United States who was sentenced to death during the war. He had stirred up hostility in Mexico and was considered a potential dynamite and a menace. He escaped once and was regarded as extremely dangerous. The death sentence was commuted to life in the penitentiary, however, and last November he was released.
The alien spy free and, to his credit, remembering as a prison acquaintance with a girl, "The loyal soldier and obedient prisoner left behind the walls."
Taylor's case probably looks the worst on official records and looks the most worthy of clemency to those personally acquainted with it of almost any in the list.
Serious Charge
The charge is criminal assault upon an aged woman in France. Taylor's story is that he heard a commotion in a house one night. It was a house not of the best reputation and was frequented by soldiers.

Taylor ran in and found two soldiers struggling with the proprietress. He fought with them, they fled and he lifted the old woman from where she had fallen on the floor.
Then the French gendarmes came in. Upon their testimony he was found guilty and sentenced by court martial. The victim never identified him.
Perhaps the version indicated by circumstances and accepted by the court is correct. Perhaps Taylor's good conduct before and since the court is correct. Perhaps Taylor's good conduct before and since the incident is a pose and a fraud. But in a civil court, with innocence presumed until guilt is proved, there is at least a chance that the findings might have been different.

176 LOCKED UP
Taylor is among 176 of war-time military prisoners here who have been examined at close range by Major James H. Stansfield and Major Frank K. Ross, sent from Washington for the purpose.
Over at the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth there are 184 other military prisoners who face sentences of five years or longer. And there are other all but forgotten war-time soldiers at Atlanta and McNeil Island, Wash., and Fort Jay, N. Y., who are now being considered.

While these remain in prison—pathetic men who got into trouble while in uniform the highways of the earth are open to the slackers and the I. W. W. and enemy spies who are beneficiaries of sweeping clemency. Not one remains in federal prison.

Saved Warden's Life
There is a life term in the penitentiary here who saved the life of Warden Biddle twice when maniacal convicts sought to strike him from behind.

There is a boy convicted of murder who struck a comrade with a knife in the dark apparently by accident, and the boy already had won a croix de guerre.
Youthfulness is a striking characteristic of many prisoners. Many committed their crimes in the unaccustomed conditions overseas, due largely to the easily obtained wine and cognac.

"I some cases," the severity of the sentences seems due to the court's desire to make an impression abroad with the sternness of American discipline.
And some the prisoners are simply hard boiled malefactors. There seems to be no probability of blanket amnesty for all. But there's a feverish hope that the visit of the two War Department officers will mean some of the soldiers within will join the slackers outside.

FIREBUG DRAWS 10-20 YEAR SENTENCE

NEW YORK, March 4.—Edward Schlott, who styled himself "The International fire bug," was sentenced today to from 10 to 20 years in prison for attempted arson. Schlott, also known as Otto Schultz and Daniel Lee, in pleading guilty last week, said he had set at least 15 fires since 1919.
Schlott said he had a mania for fire setting. He was arrested after he had tried to burn the Hotel Merle, where he lived, on December 2, last.
Schlott confessed to starting fires in hotels, rooming houses, public institutions and private homes from coast to coast.
At his trial Schlott told Judge Mancuso that his mania was the result of a fever contracted while he was serving with the army in the Philippines.

V.C. FAILURE WON'T AFFECT BUSINESS

ATLANTA, March 4.—Re-organization of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company is not expected to affect business in the cities in which its plants are located, as the receiver-ship has been discontinued. The fertilizer movement has been slow due largely to an unusually late spring. Carriers are urging trade interests to start fertilizers moving, fearing a congestion of rolling stock later.

THE GARRETT CHARTER BILL

Passage by the State Senate yesterday of the Garrett charter bill is the first step towards the composing of acute local differences which have arisen over the charter subject of recent months. The bill is essentially democratic in principle and no one will deny that it offers a means of securing a charter which will represent the wishes of the people since under the terms of the act the commission to write the charter will be elected by wards—or, let us say, "sections" since the word "ward" conjures up in the minds of some such visions of misfeasance.

The charter bill passed by the Senate yesterday that it will have the same favorable consideration by the House to which the measure is now sent for action.

The terms of the bill which provides that two citizens from each of the city's wards shall write the charter de novo is in line with the attitude which was shown by the Senate committee on Counties, Cities and Towns which declined to act as arbiter for a strictly local difference of opinion. The obvious interpretation of the bill is that the people of Danville should decide their own troubles at home and no better method of doing this could be found than that provided for in the Garrett charter bill which invests the people with the authority to choose their own charter commissioners who will be answerable to them for the instrument they would devise. It eliminates the possibility of the very thing which, in our opinion, prevented action on the charter this session of the legislature—the assumption of a higher authority than that vested in the original charter revisers and the inclusion in that charter of one political issue sufficiently live to create the storm which submerged it. The charter revisers which spent nearly three months going over the present charter line for line and debating the numerous suggestions which came from the city's public life and from citizens, studiously avoided injecting into it the old method of electing the Superintendent of Works feeling that to do so would jeopardize its chances in the legislature. That the judgment of the charter revisers in this respect was wise and prudent has been repeatedly emphasized since the council first took to include the one thing the charter revision commission had avoided.

The course of Senator Garrett is to be commended in our estimation since his measure provides a means of solving local troubles and gives the people of the community as a whole the chance of securing a charter conforming to their wishes. The legislature would not hesitate to consider and act on a charter produced by the means provided in the charter bill and coming from the source provided. The fate of the Danville schools is not bound up in the charter bill which has failed of passage. The people of Danville intend to see to it that the present deplorable conditions are remedied and they know that the authority to deal with that local problem is fully vested in the school board and thus the electorate of Danville and is not contingent on the mood of the legislature. The voters are fully capable of analyzing the situation for themselves and will not fail to understand the convulsive movements of the school board in connection with the charter bill.

A radio broadcasting station in New York will give over its night's program to those who will tell only the truth, unless the police stop it.

GIVE THE LOCAL MEN A CHANCE

In the forthcoming consideration of city school buildings which is destined to claim the time and thought of the city school board, The Bee expresses the hope that the competence of home talent will be carefully considered before any of the contracts for plans or building are let. There is already talk of going outside the city for technical advice in the construction of school buildings and the securing of plans from sources remote to the city in which the construction work is to be undertaken. We hold no brief for either architects of this city nor builders other than a desire to see those who are established in business in Danville given a full opportunity to compete openly with others whose prestige is perhaps more widely known. It is rather early to begin bedecking the brows of out-of-town concerns with laurels, and flatter them for their capacity. It is safe to say that a regard for reputation would inspire the very best efforts on the part of those who earn their livelihood in this city and possibly a larger effort than would be made by some organization which would not be put so thoroughly on its mettle.

SCANDAL NO. 1

The scandals at Washington have become so many of late that it may be necessary eventually to number them on a serial basis; but there is one that ought to stand first for correction, regardless of its chronological position, and that is the outrage involving the Veterans' Bureau under a former director. From the talk there has been, and the indignation expressed, one might imagine that by now a number of those responsible for the wrongdoing would be in the penitentiary. Decisive action in that respect, however, is still to be taken. It is now for the public to recall what it said to the young men when they left for the front, and how it celebrated them as heroes when they returned, telling them nothing was too good for them. Let this feeling be revived today and placed behind the obligation to the disabled veterans. It is not alone that money provided toward meeting this debt to the wounded heroes has been misused, but also that there have been aggravating delays—where there should have been prompt action to provide the veterans' hospitals authorized.

This will not do for America. The spirit that turned the tide of the great war toward victory for democracy must become active again to see that justice is done the Americans who were disabled in the struggle or whose health requires attention today for any reason. The American people owe it to themselves as a whole as well as to the disabled heroes to see that the veterans' bureau scandal is cleared away as soon as possible, those responsible for it punished, and needed hospitals rushed to completion.

The Temptation and Decision of Jesus

Read Mt. 4:1-11 Text: 4:10. Then, said Jesus unto him: Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written, The Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve. "Jesus' religious experience with the will of God was a growth, as is the growth of all real human experience must be. He faced uncertainties that called for moral adventure, for experiment as a means of attaining experience and character. Character for him, as for us, came by thinking and trying his way through difficult problems by going forward when he could not see far ahead, by feeling the tremendous pull of temptation and resisting it."

MEDITATION: When Jesus realized that he possessed great power the question which forced itself upon his attention was: How shall this great possession be used? He was so close to God and God had revealed his will to him so clearly that he decided once for all time to use his powers for the eternal good of men.

PERSONAL QUESTION: How am I tempted today?
PRAYER: O Thou strong Son of God, who wast tempted to the uttermost and did not sin, be thou our help and our strength. Give us thy strength and guidance. Thou knowest how much we need thee. O, abide with us. Amen.

WHISKEY GIVING WAY TO MILK AS GLASGOW WORKMEN'S DRINK

(By The Associated Press.)
GLASGOW, March 4.—Milk is taking the place of whiskey as a workmen's beverage to such an extent that Glasgow publishers are gradually transferring the milk business. The principal reason for the change is said to be the high price of whiskey, workmen being unable to afford 15 cents for a drink. Some years ago publishers paid from $5.00 to $6.00 a barrel for "good will" of a licensed house, and now they find these values. Hence small milk shops are being opened to take the place of the abandoned licensed places.

The old sea captain says: I was over in Iceland this summer. It's a great country. Irishmen relish fighting with the keen sense of enjoyment that ordinary people do eating. A Killing Job.
Serving as President of the United States is a killing job. As time passes, it becomes increasingly so. There is but one living ex-President. Rarely have there been more than two at any one time in the last fifty years. Twenty-eight men preceded President Coolidge in this office. Dividing them into two groups of fourteen each, and comparing the two groups, we find some interesting facts. The average age of the fourteen who first served was a little more than 57 years at the time of inauguration. The average of the second fourteen at inauguration was less than 54 years. Men were more nearly senile at 57 prior to 1860 than they were after that date.

Of those in the first group, twelve survived and their average age on leaving the presidency was a little over 61 years. Only ten of the second group lived to finish out their terms and their averages on completing the job was a little over 59.

Grover Cleveland's record of twelve years between his first inaugural and his last retirement served to bring up the average age on retirement of the latter group.

The twelve in the first group, who lived to reach the end of their terms, had an average life after retirement of fourteen years. The ten in the second group, who lived to fill out their terms, had an average life of a little less than eight years.

Men 61 years of age have a life expectancy of 13.7 years. The president prior to 1860 does not seem to have been a killing game. Men 59 years of age have an expectancy of 14.6 years. The second group died at an average age that was 6.7 years less than their expectancy. The average age at death of the first fourteen Presidents was twenty years; of those of the second fourteen who have died from natural causes was 56.2 years.

In the first group, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, J. Q. Adams, Jackson, Van Buren, Tyler, and Fillmore lived beyond 70 years. The second group only Buchanan, Hayes, and Harrison attained 70.

Of the recent Presidents, the only ones who survived long after the termination of service were: Cleveland, eleven years; Hayes, eleven years; and Roosevelt, nine years. The second group most recent deaths were due to degenerative, or wear-and-tear diseases—Harding, heart and blood trouble; Wilson, apoplexy, a blood vessel disease, and Bright's disease.

We do not elect old men to the presidency. Buchanan, 66, and William Henry Harrison, 68, might be called exceptions. It seems that old men eliminate themselves, or are eliminated by the wise councils of the political bosses.

And out just how many pieces of maracas you have on your plate, just count the number of ends and divide by two.

And a very pretty girl
Was standing in front of me
And just when one of the Monkeys made a move
Towards her
She suddenly screamed
And fell backwards
Right into my arms—
She hesitated for a moment there.
Then said,
"O, that little thing
Bristled me so

FORTUNE'S FOOL

© SABEL SABATINI (1923). RELEASED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Colonel Holles, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, his native land, when war with Holland is declared. It is dangerous for Holles to accept a commission in the English army because the name of Randal Holles, father of the colonel, is on the warrant for the execution of the late king.

The dreaded plague is spreading rapidly in London. A friend of the colonel named Tucker, for plotting against the government because Holles has been seen in Tucker's company a warrant is also out for his arrest.

His Grace of Buckingham hires Colonel Holles to abduct the actress Sylvia Farquharson. Holles waits for Sylvia to test the chemistry of men with the help of hired rogues, he carries off the actress. When passers-by hear their screams Holles tells them that she is stricken delirious with the plague.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
The doctor checks their swiftness. Miss Farquharson who had overheard the Colonel's warning and perceived its paralyzing effect upon those rescuers whom she had been regarding as Heaven-sent, leaped forward in frenzied fear that the trait was about to close upon her.

"He lies! He lies!" she shrieked in her terror. "It is false! I have not the plague! I have not the plague! I swear it! Do not heed him, sirs! Do not heed him! Deliver me from these villains. Oh, of your charity, sirs, in God's name, do not let me be abandoned me, or I am a lost woman elst!"

They stood at gaze, moved by her piteous cries, yet hesitating what to believe. Holles addressed them, speaking softly:

"She is distraught, poor soul. Demented. I am her husband, sirs, and she fancies me an enemy. I am told it is a common enough state in those upon whom this terrible disease has fastened. It was a truth of which the onslaught of the plague was commonly attended by derangement of the mind and odd delusions. 'And for your governance, sirs, I should tell you that I greatly fear I am myself infected. I beg you, sirs, do not to detain me, but to stand aside so that we may regain our home before my strength is spent.'"

Behind him Miss Farquharson continued to scream, her furious appeals and her entreaties that they should deliver her.

If they still doubted, yet they dared not put their doubts to the test. Agast, spent by her effort, Miss Farquharson sank back with a moan, feeling herself alone in the world. When one of the chairmen, in obedience to an order from the Colonel, pulled the apron open, she at once leaped up and out, and would have gone speeding thence but that the other chairmen held her firmly, whilst his fellow wound round about her head a long scarf which Holles had tossed him for the purpose. That done, they made fast her hands behind her with a stout chain, and thrust her back into the chair, and shut her in.

On it went, then away to the left, and up the steep gradient of Paul's Chains, and lastly to the right into Knight Ryder street. There a standstill, and the chairmen, on the side of the street, pulled the apron open, and hands seized upon her to dead her forth. She hung back a dead weight in a last futile attempt at resistance. Then she felt herself bodily lifted in strong arms and swung to a man's shoulder.

Thus Holles bore her into the house, where he had the poles hastily removed, was also presently bestowed. The Colonel turned to the right of the roomly hall in which two silent figures stood at attention—Buckingham's other two French lackeys—saw that a mode-ratified square chamber, somberly furnished and somberly wainscoted from bare floor to whitened ceiling. In the middle of the room a table with massive corkscrew legs were set for supper, and on the table a silver service of crystal and silver in the light from the great candlebranch that occupied its middle. The long window overlooking the street was close-shuttered, the shutters barred. Under this stood a dais of cane and andrews, furnished with velvet cushions of a dull wine color. To this dais Holles conveyed his burden. Having set her down, he stooped to remove the handkerchief that bound her wrists.

It was a compassionate act, for he knew that the pining must be causing pain by now to her arms. Under the broad brim of his hat, his face, moist from his exertions, gleamed white, his lips were tightly compressed. His hand went upon the accomplishment of the business as he had planned it, he had given little thought to its ugly nature. Now suddenly as he bent over this figure, at once so graceful, so pale and frail, as a faint sweet perfume that he breathed assailed his nostrils, conveying to his senses a suggestion of her dauntlessness and femininity. Disgust of the thing he did overwhelmed him, like physical nausea.

He turned away to close the door, leaving her hat and cloak, and mopping his brow as he went, for the sweat was running down him like basting on a capon. Whilst he was crossing the room she struggled at her feet and hands, but now she liberty she tugged and tore at the scarf until she loosed it so that it slipped down from her face and hung in folds about the line of her low-cut modish bodice.

He closed the door and turned again to face her. He attempted to smother in a smile the hand-grip expression of his countenance.

"Unless you suffer me to depart at once, you shall hear of me again. The sweat on your face and tense can't be voice at last."

"Who are you? What... what is your name?"
He started in his turn, checking in the very act of mopping his brow, wondering what it was she said in him to be moving her so oddly.

"You are Randal Holles!" she cried on a wild, strained note.

He advanced a step in a sort of consternation, breathless, some sad, dem ghastly emotion tearing at his face, crying he wildly, his jaw faltering, his whole face livid as a dead man's.

"Randal Holles!" she repeated in that curiously tortured voice. "You! You of all men—and to do this thing!"

Where there had been only wild amazement in her eyes, he beheld now a growing horror, until mercifully she covered her face with her hands.

For a moment he copied her action, too, acting spasmodically, covering his face. The years rolled back; the room with its table laid for that infamous supper melted away to be replaced in his vision by a cherry orchard, a girl on a swing, teasing and adorable, singing a song that brought him, young and clean and honorable, hesitating to her side. He saw himself a lad of twenty going out into the world with a lady's glove in his hand, to love that day he cherished.

HE STAGGERED FORWARD AND FELL ON HIS KNEES. He begged for mercy, for a chance to atone for his crime, for a chance to atone for his crime, for a chance to atone for his crime.

The years had wrought in her appearance a change that utterly disguised her.

He recoiled back until his shoulders came to rest against the closed door, and stared and stared in dazed amazement, his soul revolted by the horror of the situation in which they found themselves.

"God!" he groaned aloud. "My Nan! My little Nan!"
Chapter XVIII
The Parley
At any other time and in any other place this meeting must have filled him with horror of a different kind. He might have been bewitched by pain and anger to find Nancy Sylvester, whom his imagination had placed high and inaccessible as the very stars, whose memory had acted as a beacon to him, casting a pure white light to guide him through the quagmire of many a vile temptation, reduced to this state of—as he judged it—evil epiphany.

Just now, however, the consciousness of his own infamous position blotted out all other thought.

He staggered forward, and fell on his knees before her.

"Nan! Nan!" he cried in a strangled voice. "I did not know. I did not dream."

It was enough to confirm the very worst of the fears that were assailing her, to afford her that explanation of his presence against which she had been desperately struggling in defiance of the overwhelming evidence.

He stood before him, a woman of little more than average height and of an almost sapling grace, yet invested with something proud and regal and aloof that did not desert her even now in this terrible situation, once of peril and of cruellest disillusion.

She was dressed, as it chanced, entirely in white and all white she stood before him save where the folds of the blue scarf with which she had been muffled still hung about her neck and bosom. No whiter than her oval face was her gown of shimmering ivory satin.

"What I have done, I can undo," he said, and, commanding himself under the stress of that urgent need, he never uttered a word of firmness.

"Come! As I carried you hither, in defiance of all, so will I carry you hence again at once while yet there is time."

She recoiled before the hand that he put out to seize her and compel her. There was a sudden fury of anger in her eyes, a fury of scorn on her lips.

"You will carry me hence! You! I am to trust myself to you?"

"The never-vindictive under the lash of her contempt, so intent was he upon that one urgent thing.

"Will you stay, then, and trust yourself to Buckingham?" he flung fiercely back at her. "Come, I say."

"I have never so wildly mastered in his overwhelming concern for her."

"With you? Oh, not that! Never with you! Never!"

He beat his hands together in his frenzy of impatience.

NEW TREATMENT RIDES YOU OF RHEUMATIC PAINS QUICKLY

No Medicine To Take. Results Guaranteed by Local Druggists.

The well-known physicist, Alessandro Volta for whom the electric volt was named, has made a scientific discovery that promises to cure rheumatism with the most stubborn and agonizing cases of rheumatism, where the old-fashioned risky internal drug treatment has failed.

This famous discovery, which revolutionizes old ideas about the cause and proper treatment of rheumatism, is an external remedy, intended to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet.

The eminent Italian scientist has compounded a powder called Volta that is intended to be a powerful and active Uric Acid solvent. This marvelous powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to be absorbed almost immediately into the blood, thus acting upon certain poisons now definitely determined to be the cause of most rheumatic agony.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and in Italy, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with an unconditional guarantee of relief from the use of the very first package or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost you a cent if you do not receive wonderful relief. You can get a box of Volta, from such good druggists as A. W. Jacobs & Co., Main St., Booth's Drug Store, Main St.—adv.

NO TROUBLE WHEN BABY CAME

Mrs. Crossan Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Dakan Also Tells What This Medicine Does

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I decided to try it as I had had such a hard time with my first child. I took nine bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I never felt better in my life than the day my baby girl was born. I will be glad to tell what it will do, to any woman who will let me know her address."—Mrs. ROSE DAKAN, 2227 S. 11th St., St. Joseph, Missouri.

Back To Normal Health
New Orleans, Louisiana.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while I was carrying my child and I must praise it highly because I never suffered one day during that time and could do all my housework and had a very easy confinement. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound because I have a weakness due to working around the house too soon after my baby was born. But thanks again to the Vegetable Compound I am getting back to normal health once more. I advise any woman to take it."—Mrs. A. M. J. 3019 Toussaint St., New Orleans, Louisiana.

Not A Bit Of Trouble
Wilmington, Delaware.—"I was nervous and weak and not at all regular. I worked in a factory at the time and could not work very much.

I was sick over a year, then a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I started to pick up as soon as I began taking it. Then I took it again before my next baby was born and I never had a bit of trouble. I recommend it highly."—Mrs. JANE CROSSAN, 612 Pine St., Wilmington, Delaware.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many other women, just as it has helped Mrs. Dakan, Mrs. Crossan and Mrs. Crossan.

Consider the statements of these women. They give you the benefit of their actual experience with the Vegetable Compound.

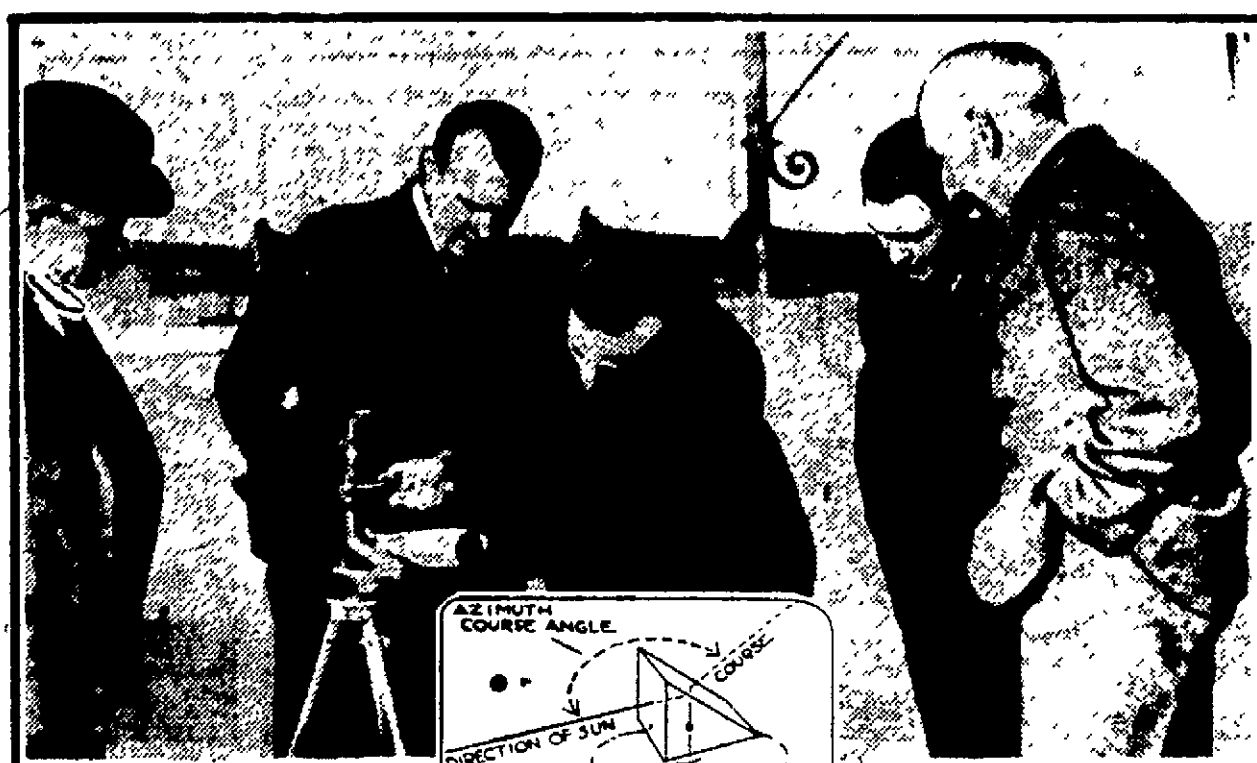

A nation-wide canvass of women purchasers of the Vegetable Compound reports that 95 out of every 100 have been benefited by its use.

This is a remarkable record and proves the dependability of the medicine for the relief of the troubles women often have.

For weak and run-down conditions so common after child-birth it is well adapted. It strengthens and tones up the system and restores normal health.

The Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs or narcotics and can be taken in safety by the nursing mother. For sale by druggists everywhere.

FIRST ACCOUNT OF NEW SUN COMPASS

By HAAKON H. HAMMER
Captain Rold Amundsen's Associate
(Written Especially for Sea Service and The Bee)

An artificial sun has been created to overcome the greatest difficulty in a transpolar flight—that of navigation in the Arctic regions. Whether the flight is made in dirigible or airplane, the same obstacle is encountered—that of keeping one's direction.

For it is by the compass that the navigator sets his course and holds his direction. But in the high latitudes, the earth's forces which act on the compass in a directive manner, become less and less. The ordinary compass becomes more and more unreliable. Through the motion of the plane, the needle commences to spin around and the compass becomes utterly useless.

The proximity of the magnetic pole furthermore effects the magnetic compass.

A gyro-compass suggested itself. But this had to be eliminated because zero at 90 degrees north.

Takes Tip From Sun
Appreciating these difficulties, and realizing that his navigation plan would only be feasible if he were furnished with a reliable direction-finder in high latitudes, Captain Amundsen set out to devise a new type of compass.

The sun itself is a perfect substitute for the ordinary means of direction-finding in the Arctic but the rotation of the earth is an inconvenience—the sun does not maintain a constant azimuth, but moves around the horizon once every 24 hours.

The thought of a sun dial connected with a clock-work presented itself as a solution. So on a visit to Berlin in January, Captain Amundsen and I placed the problem before the scientific staff of the C. P. Goetz Optical Works.

With Amundsen's suggestion as a basis, he constructed a working model of a sun compass which is astounding in its simplicity and which permanently eliminates the difficulty in direction-finding in the Arctic during the summer months.

In high latitudes the sun is continually on the horizon from the middle of May until late August and clouds and fog are no obstacles as the airplane can always ascend above them.

After having adjusted the new sun compass to the desired direction, the pilot steers according to the image of the sun produced by optical means on a dial before his eyes, without regard to the real position of the sun or differently expressed, this artificial sun will keep the pilot in the desired direction so that he may steer as on a distant landmark.

In the annexed plan, the optical

LAYMAN ON VET. COMMITTEE.

RICHMOND, March 3.—Fereny-hough, state veterinarian and president of the United States Livestock Association, announced yesterday that he had appointed Senator E. B. White of Leesburg to membership on the finance committee of the association.

In making this appointment Dr. Fereny-hough stated that he felt that this was a committee on which a layman should serve. He stated, "Senator White is a nationally recognized breeder of the finest Percheron horses, he is well known by the stock raisers of the country, and he is always at the International Livestock Show at Chicago each fall at which time the United States Livestock Association holds its annual meeting."

The teacher, seeking to illustrate the uses of the minus sign, drew the simple sum, shown above, on the blackboard.

"No," replied the precocious child, much to her astonishment. "The correct answer is 4."

Why was Tommy right?

After recovering I crossed a pasture when a bull chased me and tossed me over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1910 I had typhoid fever, since then severe stomach and liver trouble which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago I got a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy which proved the first ray of light in thirteen years. ## However, —comma

By JAMES W. DEAN

By MAURICE HENLE.

NEW YORK, March 5.—See-sawing seven days and seven nights around town I heard Irving Berlin sing "What'll I Do?" and "Lazy," two songs as yet unpublished but which promise to become very popular. . . . saw Marion Davies, who always is a center of attraction at an opening night. . . . saw Louis Wolheim, the movie villain, who doesn't look as vicious off the screen as on. . . . saw Elsie Ferguson in "The Moon-Flower" and she apparently is as temperamental as ever. They say she would never allow anyone to watch her work in the movies.

Went down to the East Side, where I heard Charles Lawlor, blind composer of "The Sidewalks of New York," sing his world-famous song with his daughter. . . . heard Maude Nugent sing "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," which she wrote years ago. . . . saw Constance Binney in a very poor musical show which has little except the sweetness of Constance herself to recommend it. . . . saw Peggy and Corbett, dancers in the Ambassador grill, do the tango, and believe them to be among the most graceful dancers in the world. . . . heard Russian folk-songs at a famous Russian resort on 57th street, and think a little optimism injected in the melodies would not harm anyone. These melancholy Russian strains are the inheritance of years of oppression.

It now is said that the author of "Haunch Paunch and Jowl," a vicious story of East Side gangster life, is a young Jew, practically unknown. It was believed at first that the book was written by a prominent New Yorker who had emerged from the muck and slime of crime and taken his place as a leader in American thought and life, that this was his reason for suppressing his name.

This is supposition, for a reading of the book leaves the impression that its author is well known. "Haunch Paunch and Jowl" pits the Russian Jews against the German Jews and reveals the hatred that exists on the part of the former against their more financially fortunate brothers. It reveals details of crime that exists on the East Side, and is sordid indeed. Most of the opposition to the book is coming down within the ranks of the Jews themselves, but it seems to me that these antagonists of the book misjudge the intellectual level of the country.

They say the book will arouse anti-Semitism, and it undoubtedly will in the unthinking class. But strange to say this feeling of revulsion seems to be stronger on the part of the Jews than non-Jews.

YOU CAN QUICKLY LIMBER UP SORE, STIFF, SWOLLEN JOINTS

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder Or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and every live druggist has it. It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints. Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments. Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly. It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense. Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bring speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and sciatica, much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy. But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will vanish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.—adv.

They always stick to one brand

In tuning up new cars the biggest manufacturers make a standard practice of always using the same brand of gasoline and oil. By thus eliminating one possible variable they make the testing and adjusting of the engine simpler and more reliable.

The obvious choice of car manufacturers is "Standard" gasoline and "Standard" Polarine oils and greases for all test purposes. This not only enables them to compare successive tests on a fair basis but it insures the best possible showing from each engine.

The lay motorist can hardly do better than to follow their example. "Standard" products are widely distributed, but to be quite sure of getting them, it is always best to ask for them by name.

N. C. Wins Southern Basketball Championship

BEAT ALABAMA LAST NIGHT IN TOURNAMENT FINALS

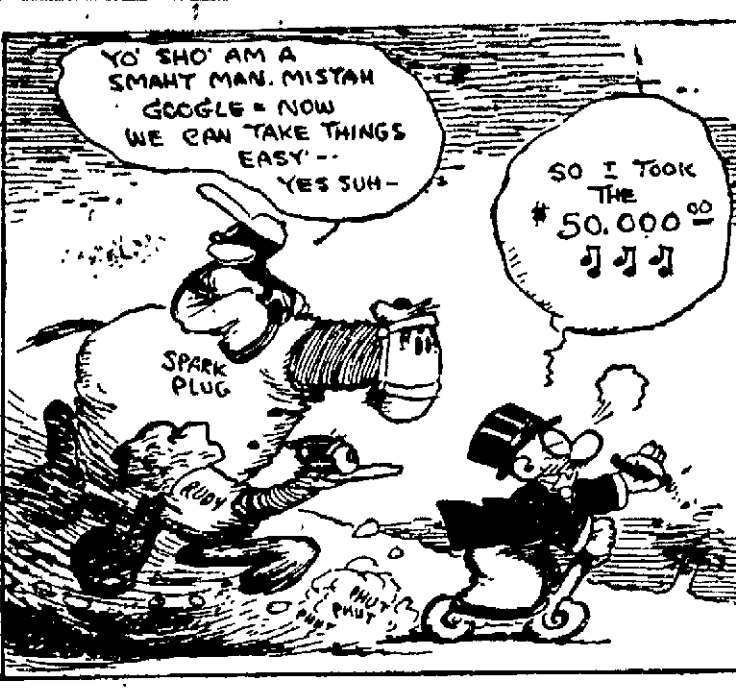

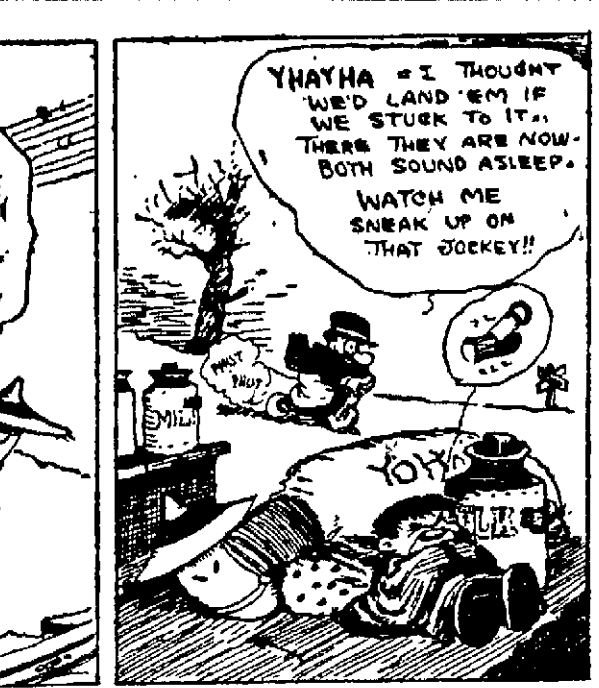

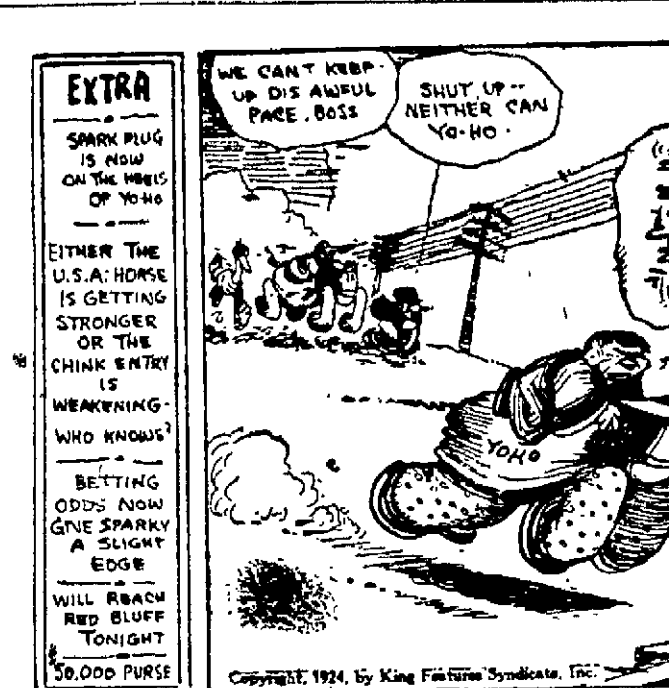

(By the Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Mar. 5.—For the second time in three years, a fleet-footed quintet of Carolinians has carried the basketball championship of the Southern intercollegiate conference back to Chapel Hill. N. C., from the University of North Carolina, defeated the University of Alabama in the tournament finals last night, capturing the championship of the conference crown by a score of 28 to 15. No other team has won the title twice, and the Tar Heels made their second victory yet more impressive by defeating in this year's match play the two other former champions, Kentucky, which won the first tournament in 1921 and Mississippi A and M, which was defending in this tournament, the title won last year. Carolina's former victory having been in the tournament of 1922. Coach Shepherd's champions won which proved equally effective in its title by its brilliant teamwork, attack and in defense work against dangerous scoring machines such as those of Alabama and the Mississippi Aggies. Vanderbilt was the fourth team defeated in the tournament, the Tar Heels scoring 137 points to 81 by its opponents in the four games.

The Alabama team was successful in holding Carolina to a close score but in doing it committed fouls which gave the Tar Heels their championship. Both teams scored seven field goals but Carolina obtained twelve points on free throws after fouls while Alabama obtained only four. The eight points difference being the margin of victory. Three Alabama players were removed for personal fouls near the end of the game and the Crimson would have been forced to finish with only four players except that Captain "Shim" Carter was permitted to return at the request of the Carolina team.

In spite of the large number of personal fouls called the game was without notable roughness, the tenseness of the contest and the closeness of the guarding resulting in the misplays which caused Alabama's downfall.

GAMES FOR THE SAKE

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)
NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—Michigan looks forward to placing basketball on the credit side of the athletic ledger. From the present outlook the authorities hope that it will not only prove to be self-supporting but will help defray the expense of non-productive sports.

This is because of the greatly increased facilities for handling large crowds of spectators in the Yost field house. Already the receipts for two conference games are estimated as greater than the total receipts from basketball last winter.

If the floor game does develop into an asset, it will take something of a strain from football which, until this winter has been the only paying sport on the Wolverine calendar.

Last fall, football brought to Michigan a profit of $195,277.31. Basketball last year earned $7,211.87 and cost $13,159.61. Tracks athletics cost $16,381.05 and earned $1,820.39. Basketball cost $8,850.28 and earned $5,351.28.

The steady growth in popularity in basketball throughout the country has made of it an economic factor of significance and where it is played in a place so immense as the field house at Ann Arbor, receipts are bound to be large.

SPORTS GOSSIP

There is a bit of sentiment in the selection of Lee Fohl as coach to the Washington pitchers by Owner Clarke Griffith. Chesbro was Griffith's pitching ace when he was managing New York.

Miller Huggins figures on Sam Jones as his best pitching bet for the coming season. It's the opinion of Huggins that the success of last year has given Jones just the confidence that he needed.

"Young" Samson, University of Michigan swimmer, recently earned an "A" mark in every one of his school subjects; a most unique record for a collegiate athlete. Samson, by the way, shows much promise as a swimmer. He is built on the order of Johnny Weissmuller. He'll be eligible for Big Ten competition next season.

No longer will Boston fans be forced to watch a joke ball club, opines Connie Mack. The tall leader of the Athletics has much respect for the managerial ability of Lee Fohl.

Cleveland bought First Baseman George Burns to get more batting strength, yet Manager Lee Fohl of the Boston Red Sox is positive the passing of Burns will not lessen the offensive of his club.

Harris, who will play first, is just as good a hitter and Veatch, secured from Detroit, will supply as much batting power as did Burns, says Fohl.

Harold Grange, football star at the University of Illinois, intends to try for the varsity nine. If he makes it, and is as fast on the bases as gridiron, Big Ten catchers are going to be kept busy stopping him.

The Sportsman

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)
NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—The Royal & Ancient has finally determined that the job of running even British golf, let alone the golf of the world is too large a contract and has arranged for a committee of fourteen delegates, representing Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

The truth of the matter is that both in Great Britain and the United States, golf has ceased to be a game that can be entirely regulated by the leisure class, or be controlled by the one or two per cent of expert players who have no other duties in life.

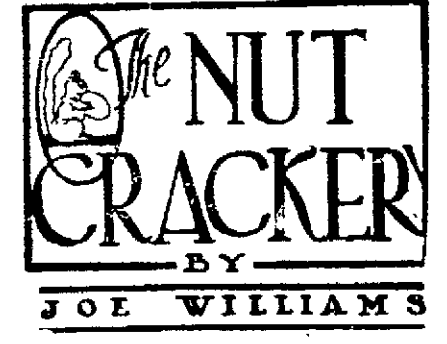

Golf, having conquered pretty much everything else, now has its tentacles fast upon the British army. A recent order from Aldershot permits the soldier to wear fatigue dress while playing the Royal & Ancient game, and provided he has with him a permit, marked "golf" in red ink.

When Johnnie McDermott had his breakdown, the United States was deprived of one of its best golf champions. McDermott won the national open both in 1911 and 1912. Now comes the report that he is recovering and he played recently at Whitemarsh valley course and made a 38 for the first nine holes. Many a one has the writer played with McDermott over the Atlantic City golf course and there never was a finer golfer among our home bred ranks. Everybody hopes Johnny will really come back.

Good Bout Is Promised Here Friday Night

Everything is ready for the Sturgis-Shimkus wrestling match to be held at the Municipal Hall, Friday night. These two wrestlers are men who know "their stuff," and an exciting bout is promised. Moody claims it is one of the best events of the season in Danville.

Indians' Star Twirler Bans Relief Roles

HOT SPRINGS, Mar. 5.—Stanley Coveleskie, veteran star pitcher of the Cleveland club, has a scheme, which he believes will considerably help his chance to be a consistent winner the coming season.

Coveleskie, a spitball pitcher, has always been a glutton for work. In addition to pitching every fourth day, sometimes often, he has been the chief rescuer of the Cleveland twirling staff.

Trouble with his arm, which developed last season, has convinced Coveleskie that he must nurse it carefully if he is to have a good year. He figures that acting as relief pitcher is one duty that he will have to forego.

When Coveleskie meets Manager Tris Speaker it is his intention to take this matter up with the Indian chief. It is his desire that he work every fourth day and be given his full rest in between pitching dates.

According to Coveleskie, three or four innings as relief pitcher, in a close game, is much out of the old arm as many a regular contest.

Two Hundred Skaters Rescued From Ice Floe

COPENHAGEN, March 4.—The remarkable rescue of 200 persons who, while skating, were carried out to sea on a huge ice floe, is reported from a small town near here. While the skaters were enjoying the sport the wind loosened a large mass of ice from the fast pack. The floe began to drift rapidly seaward with the helpless skaters.

While all harbor authorities were notified a steamship was dispatched and a number of fishing craft put out to sea. The steamship caught up with the floe several miles from shore and took off 100 of the skaters, while the others were rescued by fishing craft.

I suffered for three years with Rheumatism. Several of the most reliable physicians treated me for this trouble but none of their prescriptions did me any good and I continued to grow worse all the time. My appetite grew so bad that I could hardly raise my arm. A friend of mine advised me to try Nanzetta's Prescription. I took one bottle and now feel like an entirely different person and that I am absolutely cured. The Rheumatism is gone. My appetite is splendid and I can do a day's work without any ill-effects. I am a farmer, and as this is the busy season, I am very much gratified to know that I secured the proper treatment at the right time.

To Make The Five-Cent Fare a Success

We will have to carry 27% more passengers. Figure it for yourself—

When we carry 100 people now about 35 pay a 7c cash fare, and about 65 pay 6c—tokens.

Thirty-five paying 7c yields $2.45, and sixty-five paying 6c yields $3.90, or a total of $6.35 for 100 passengers.

To yield $6.35 at 5c requires 127 passengers, or a 27% increase in the number of passengers to yield the same amount as 100 passengers are now paying.

Apinol In A New Dress

The Pine Antiseptic Adopts the Mark of the Pine Spray

Apinol is now put out in a handy home size—a two-ounce bottle at 20c—in a brown-striped carton bearing the new mark of the Pine Spray.

Naturally, if you buy your smaller quantity of Apinol, it costs you more per ounce.

If you have never used Apinol for cuts, scratches, burns or jagged wounds, adopt this infection-fighting, antiseptic, in fact, Apinol subdues pain while it seals the wound against infecting germs. It does not sting.

That is why children who conceal their hurts in fear of iodine treatment will run from play and say—"Mama, put Apinol on it, quick."—adv.

Newark, Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester and Toronto, respectively, in the opening games. Only 37 double headers are included in the 1924 program as compared with 64 in 1923. The northern opening will be held on April 20. The season will close September 28.

Mayor Hylan Back at Desk After Illness

(By the Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—Mayor Hylan today returns to his desk in City Hall after six months of serious illness and convalescence. The Mayor returned from Palm Beach yesterday, bearing no trace of the illness which brought him close to death in Saratoga Springs last September. He walked briskly and bore out his assertion that he felt better than at any time for two years preceding his illness.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with two fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.
Of all known drugs, creosolium is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.
Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases and excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creosolium Co., Atlanta, Ga.—adv.

HARRIS WINS JURY VERDICT IN HIS SUIT

Upheld in Charges That Wife Falsely Represented Herself as Socially Prominent and Told False Stories About Her Moral Character.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—Beverly D. Harris, former vice-president of the National City Bank, has been upheld by a jury in his charges that his wife, Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, had falsely represented herself as a member of a socially prominent family and falsified concerning her moral character in his suit for the annulment of his marriage.

In direct answer to six questions the jury in Supreme court last night found a verdict in favor of Mr. Harris in five instances and the verdict will be submitted to special term next Monday for final decision.
Mrs. Harris, in her defense, denied that she ever had improper relations with Eli C. Raynor, who she declared, was her father, and insisted that her sister Samuels, or Susie Lee, had been mistaken for her in underworld haunts, which Mr. Harris charged his wife inhabited before their marriage.
The only question answered in her favor was to the effect that Harris could have ascertained the truth of his charges before making a separation agreement with his wife.
The jury found that Mrs. Harris had represented herself to the former banker as a member of the Lee family, a prominent in the South; as a pure and chaste woman; and as a niece of Eli Raynor, and that all these representations were false.
The jurors were given an opportunity to say whether they believed the story of the defense about the existence of a half sister named Samuels; nor did they pass on the question of whether Raynor was Mrs. Harris' father.

Lynchburg Plants Are Operating Only Part Time

(By the Associated Press.)
LYNCHBURG, Va., Mar. 5.—Curtailed production prevails here in textile and garment mills, the local branch of the Consolidated Textile Corporation, having been on a day week since January 1. The two plants of the Lynchburg Hosiery Company are running 70 per cent. capacity. The shirt department of the Old Dominion Garment Company is on full time but the overalls department is working four days a week and the N and W Overall Company has curtailed to four days. The A. C. Barrow Company, overall plant is running full time.

LONG STEP TAKEN BY SHIPPING BOARD TOWARDS BUILDING UP A PERMANENT MERCHANT MARINE

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, March 5.—The Shipping Board has taken a long step toward building up a permanent merchant marine by its certification to the Interstate Commerce Commission that sufficient tonnage exists to warrant the placing in effect of section 28, of the merchant marine act. E. C. Plummer, vice-chairman of the board, declared in an address today before the Propeller Clubs of the port of New York.
Mr. Plummer explained that the board's action was taken in accordance with a mandatory provision of the act and was not an "aggressive move" on its part. He disputed claims that American tonnage was inadequate and that application of the preferential rate clause would disrupt the railroad rate structure, asserting they were made in "ignorance" of the facts.
There is nothing in the law, he said, forbidding "any or all of the exports and imports of this country traveling in foreign ships."
"If an exporter prefers to use a foreign ship that is his privilege. The only changed condition produced by the release of this law is that if his through shipments are handled by American vessels he gets a lower railroad rate for such goods when they are being brought from the interior to the seaboard or are being carried from the seaboard to interior points than he can get if he patronizes foreign ships."

Some United States ports already have export and import rates, said Mr. Plummer, and all that is necessary to put all ports of the country on a basis of equality is a section "merely to establish similar rates" as those where they are not in effect.
"This rate," he continued, "might be arrived at by merely providing for

MUM AND IN JAIL

"Where did you get that story?" asked the judge. "I won't tell," said Ralph F. King, assistant city editor of the Washington (D. C.) Daily Sun. "Thirty days in jail, then," remarked the court. King, pictured above, moved his typewriter into his cell and kept at work. He keeps in touch with the outside world over a radio. His boss doubled his salary. Harris' imprisonment King obtained his story from a confidential source and is keeping his pledge of secrecy despite courts and jails.

SOVIET RUSSIA TO TRY TO GET LARGE CREDITS

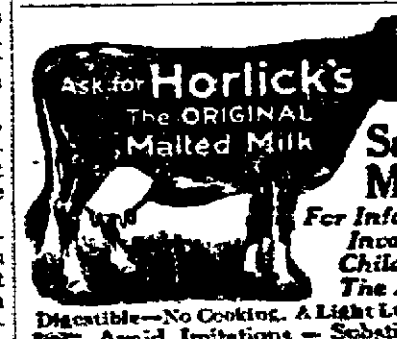

(By the Associated Press.)
LONDON, Mar. 5.—Soviet Russia will arrive at the forthcoming Anglo-Russian conference to negotiate credits of £150,000,000 spread over three years, the Moscow correspondent of the Daily Express states. He attributes his information to Christian Rakovsky, soviet charge d'affaires to London, who recently returned to Moscow to discuss the arrangements for the conference.
The credits, the despatch states, must be 67 per cent. goods and thirty-three per cent. cash. England to advance £40,000,000 the first year, £50,000,000 the second, £60,000,000 the third, interest payments to begin within two years.
"We emphasize that financial credits are absolutely necessary if the orders are ready to place in England during the next few years are to be given," Rakovsky is quoted as saying. "These credits are not for the Red army but are exclusively for economic reconstruction."

Change in Program At Majestic Today

After enjoying a hearty reception by each audience of the initial performance, Bob Black's Globe Trotter company, appearing at the Majestic today, offers a change in program today. The show contains many pleasing features and specialties which won approval on Monday and Tuesday. Black himself furnishes the bulk of the comedy, which is in the role of blackface, supported by Drane Walters, also a portrayer of persons of color. There are a number of specialties, among them the harmony singing trio, the two playing Hawaiian melodies, and others. Another change will be given on Friday, the show vacating tomorrow for "Up She Goes," a road attraction.

N. D. Preparing For Primary

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
BISMARCK, N. D., Mar. 5.—State printers are proceeding with preparation of the ballots for the March 18 primary without the name of Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, as a candidate for the presidential preference nomination. Acting on the advice of the State attorney general, Secretary of State Hall ordered that action last night after the Supreme court reversed a district court decision which had directed issuance of a peremptory writ of mandamus to force the secretary of state to place La Follette's name on the ballot.
The case was remanded to District court for further action.

HIGH IN SAFETY, YET U. S. SHOWS MOST ACCIDENTS

CHICAGO, March 5.—"America presents the anomalous situation of being the most advanced nation in accident prevention, and at the same time having the highest accident rate on earth."

Thus does William H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council, sum up the efforts of safety advocates in this country to educate workmen toward greater care in their work.
The reason for the paradox, he says, lies in the beginning of a prodigious movement for safety.
"It takes time to develop the safety habit in individuals," he replies. "Safety consists only 25 per cent. in the shield around the buzz saw and 75 per cent. in the cautious brain and habits of the worker."
Yet this fundamental idea of industrial accident avoidance is realized by less than one-tenth of one per cent. of the workers in this country, and by an almost imperceptible few abroad, Cameron estimates.
But the United States is taking the lead in safety.

Low Scores In Golf Expected In Play Today

(By the Associated Press.)
MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 5.—Low scores were expected today in the second day's play in the international professional golf team championship tournament. Upsets in some instances and super golf in other matches featured yesterday's opening play.
Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell were badly beaten by Bill Mehlhorn and MacDonald Smith; 9 and 8. Arthur Havers and Jimmy Ogden were forced to play their best to defeat Leo Diehl and Fred McLeod, winning one up in thirty-six holes. Duke Brady and Jack Hutchinson won from Bobby Cruikshank and George McLean and 7 Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood defeated Clarence Hackney and Emmett French 6 and 5.

Mount Cross

(Special to The Bee.)
MOUNT CROSS, Va., Mar. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Wink Payne report the loss of their collie dog, a valuable animal and one which was known throughout this entire section. The dog had been missing for some time and was feared by Leo Diehl and Fred McLeod, winning one up in thirty-six holes. Duke Brady and Jack Hutchinson won from Bobby Cruikshank and George McLean and 7 Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood defeated Clarence Hackney and Emmett French 6 and 5.
School courses are being greatly interrupted here by illness. The recent epidemic of influenza laid low many families. This was dying out when measles broke out and Mrs. C. G. Watson, teacher of the school, reports a greatly curtailed attendance. She says that she rarely remembers so much illness in this section as during the past winter.
Farmers are already getting busy with their plant beds, sowing them and preparing generally for the new crop.

Moore Baby Now Has Pneumonia

(By The Associated Press.)
ST. LOUIS, Mar. 5.—Baby Cletus Moore, 8 months old, whose hurried trip to Philadelphia for removal of a tack from his lung was watched sympathetically by the entire nation, is threatened again.
Pneumonia, feared when the tack endangered the baby's life, has set in the wound made by the tack having refused to heal. The child is in the city hospital here where his condition is considered "most precarious," according to the physician attending.

—Dr. W. S. Robertson, who was operated on recently at the General hospital, was reported this morning to be improving rapidly.

Two Advance to Second Round of Match Play

(By The Associated Press.)
BELLEAIR, Fla., Mar. 5.—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and Miss Glenna Collett, former national women champions advanced today to second round of match play in the annual Belle Air Women's championship golf tournament. Miss Collett won easily yesterday, taking her match with Mrs. George Morse, of Rutland, Vt., eight and seven. Mrs. Hurd defeated Miss Dorothy Higbie, of Chicago, five and four.
Miss Caleb Fox, of Huntingdon Valley was eliminated yesterday by Miss Friscilla Maxwell, of Hartford. Miss Maxwell, regarded as a coming woman golfer, won on the nineteenth green, one up.

Appetite Gone?

A tempting, delicious looking meal human dynamo. Your blood cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. Weakened blood cells make you like the storage battery with dry cells—power is lacking—energy gone—productive qualities at the lowest ebb. S. S. S. supplies the red blood cells—the spark that recharges your system.
Mr. James Chalkley, Sherman School, Chillicothe, Ohio, writes: "I feel like a new man after taking S. S. S. It gave me a better appetite, cleared my skin of pimples and black heads."
Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S. S. S.—the great blood purifier. Give nature a helping hand. Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality—the keen, sparkling look of life and determination. The best way to start back over the road to well being is with S. S. S. Nerves will become stronger, S. S. S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor, and a more "up and going" appearance.
S. S. S. is sold at all leading drug stores. Try a bottle and see for yourself. The large size bottle is more economical. Get one today.

"UP SHE GOES."

William A. Brady Musical Comedy at The Majestic Tomorrow.

"Up She Goes" the new musical comedy sponsored by the William A.
Brady Ltd. interests which soared to the heights of genuine popularity at its season's run at the Playhouse, New York City comes to Majestic Thursday, March 6, for one night.

The gifted Harry Tierney, who turned out the score of "Irene," has again composed another series of rollicking jingles and with lyrics by Joseph McCarthy, the play is administrated in tune with the spirit of the sprightly dancing numbers interwoven with the soft and melodious duos sung by the principals.

The book is by Frank Craven, author of "The First Year." The plot is of interest to theatregoers both old and young. There are amusing scenes with witty repartees sandwiched in among the song numbers—numbers which have become popular hits. The attractive chorus, whirling and spinning through novel steps with glee enough to please the most discriminating, will surely be appreciated.

All in all, Mr. Brady announces a first class production with a first class company.

Prices 50c to $2.50, plus tax. Seats
now selling.

CANDLER-BYFIELD

CASE BEGINS TODAY

(By The Associated Press.)

DECATUR, Ga., March 4.—Trial of $100,000 against Walter T.
Candler, son of Asa G. Candler, Atlanta soft drink millionaire, by Mrs.
Sarah Byfield, also of Atlanta, will be called in the DeKalb County Superior Court here tomorrow, according to an official court announcement today.

The case was to have been placed on trial today, but counsel representing Mr. Candler requested a one day continuance to allow William Schley
Howard, associated with the defense, to recuperate from illness.

The plaintiff's counsel announced it was ready to proceed with the case prior to the defense seeking the delay.

Mrs. Byfield, according to a court petition filed by her against the defendant, charges that Mr. Candler attacked her while she and her husband, Clyde K. Byfield, Mr. Candler and his two young daughters were en route to Europe on board the Lin-ner Berengaria in 1922.

The defendant, following the filing of the petition, issued a statement denying all the accusations against him to recover $25,000 which he alleged Byfield obtained from him the morning following the alleged incident.
